

Two Local Girls OSU Homecoming Queen Finalists

SUZANNE MILBURN

BONNIE JAN BOLENDER

Two local girls are among the five finalists vying for the title of Ohio State University homecoming queen. They are Suzanne Milburn, 21, 323 Meadow Lane, and Bonnie Jan Bolender, 21, 23647 Ringgold Southern Road.

Miss Milburn is the daughter of Robert and the late Jean Milburn. A senior majoring in physical education, she is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma Sorority, the Panhellenic Assn., a physical education honorary, past member of Undergraduate Student Government and is a resident advisor in Steeb Hall. She is a graduate of Circleville High School.

Miss Bolender is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Bolender. She is a senior majoring in microbiology and is active in Mortar Board, Ohio States Inc., vice president of Davison-Hanley Alumnae Scholarship House, United Way student campaign chairman, president of Alpha Zeta Little Sis Chapter and distinguished teaching awards committee.

For the second time in Ohio State University's history, both a king and queen will reign over homecoming weekend.

Homecoming activities begin Friday evening with a parade starting at Ohio Stadium, circling the entire campus and finishing back at the stadium.

Following the parade there will be a rally and bonfire held on the soccer field south of the stadium. Football coach Woody Hayes will address the rally about 7:30 p.m., followed by music from the Ohio State Marching Band and cheers led by Buckeye cheerleaders.

At the close of the rally the finalists in the king and queen competition will be introduced and float and sign contest winners will be announced.

The homecoming dance begins at 9 p.m. in the Ohio Union ballroom. On Saturday the king and queen will be presented and crowned at a ceremony immediately preceding the homecoming football game against The University of Wisconsin.

Selection of the 1977 king and queen and their courts are made by a panel of 20 judges — 10 students and 10 non-students — following a series of interviews.

The five finalists for the homecoming king are:

Howard Raymond Baum, 21, Bainbridge, a senior in elementary education; Greg L. Rothermund, 21, Columbus, a senior majoring in insurance and international business; Bradley W. Wenrick, 22, New Carlisle, a senior in industrial and systems engineering; Paul David Gates, 22, West Carrollton, a senior in social sciences; John D. Bollas, 22, Warren, a senior in fashion and business and consumer relations.

U.N. Security Council Debates Arms Embargo Against South Africa

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States and its chief allies on the U.N. Security Council are disputing whether to back a resolution calling for an immediate arms embargo against South Africa or one threatening a ban if the white South African government doesn't soften its racial policies by a certain date.

U.S. Ambassador Andrew Young is reported urging joint Western support of the demand by black African nations for an immediate embargo. But Britain and France, which with the United States, the Soviet Union and China have a veto in the council, are reported holding out for a warning resolution.

The black states submitted two proposed resolutions against South Africa after its government last week outlawed most important black organizations and arrested some 50 leading black opponents of its apartheid racial policy.

The other African resolution calls for a halt in new foreign investment in South Africa.

Council debate on the resolutions has been adjourned until Friday while delegates negotiate and confer with their governments. American sources said they did not expect a vote before Monday.

President Carter is expected to announce U.S. support for an arms embargo resolution at his news conference this afternoon.

The United States, Britain and France vetoed such a resolution in 1975. The three major Western powers all say they are enforcing an arms ban voluntarily, but South Africa is reported getting arms surreptitiously from dealers evading government license requirements as well as weapons more openly from Israel and a handful of other countries.

Richard Moose, the U.S. assistant secretary of state for African affairs, told reporters in Washington the Carter administration also has been considering such economic sanctions as withdrawal of guarantees for American commercial loans and a cutoff of scientific assistance.

However, the administration is reported not ready to support a massive assault on the South African economy. Last year American firms sold $1.35 billion worth of goods to South Africa, and U.S. companies have an investment of about $1.5 billion in the country.

South African Prime Minister John Vorster said Wednesday that his government will not heed foreign calls for full political rights for the black majority including "one-man, one-vote now or in the future, whatever the pressure."

"Alvin was grouchy as an ol' bear until we found a house in the Want Ads - with a den!"

Navy Target Boat Goes Astray

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — A Navy target boat, apparently weary about its role, went astray for four hours. The crewless, radio-controlled 57-foot target boat was being escorted by another Navy vessel to a target range off the Virginia Capes Wednesday when it quit responding to radio commands, the Navy said.

The Navy said the target boat was chugging into Chesapeake Bay about 15 knots an hour when the escort boat lost sight of its charge shortly after the noon hour because of rainy, misty weather.

A fishing boat radioed the Coast Guard about three hours later that the errant boat was aground, its engines still running, near Reedville in Chesapeake Bay, 47 miles from where it slipped its electronic harness.

The boat has a safety system designed to place it in slow speed and make it go in circles when radio contact is broken, but the system apparently didn't work, the Navy said.

Senate Moves Toward Vote On Energy Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, which has yet to take a formal stand on President Carter's proposed energy taxes, is being urged to revive his plan for taxing factories using large amounts of oil and natural gas.

As the Senate moved toward a vote today on the industrial tax, opponents of the $40 billion, eight-year package of energy tax breaks recommended by the Senate Finance Committee sought to deny new government aid to the oil and gas industry.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, chairman of the Senate Energy Committee, said the committee's bill is a blank check for the oil companies, "drawn on the account of the American consumer."

But Sen. Russell B. Long, finance committee chairman, said that if Jackson and his backers are able to prohibit aid for increased energy production, no energy bill could win congressional approval this year.

Jackson and Long squared off as the Senate plodded through a second day of debate on the finance committee bill, which rejects Carter's tax approach to solving the energy problem in favor of conservation and production tax incentives for business and industry.

Meanwhile, House members who support Carter's plan emerged from a White House meeting saying the President opposes diverting tax revenues to the oil industry.

They also said they feel Carter gave his commitment to veto any bill raising natural gas prices above $1.75 per 1,000 cubic feet.

"The $1.75 figure is as far as we should go," Rep. Andrew Maguire, D-N.J., quoted Carter as saying.

The Senate has voted to remove price controls from most gas, which would allow the current average price of about $1.45 to climb to whatever level the market would bear. The $1.75 price lid was voted by the House; a Senate-House conference committee will work out a compromise figure.

The six congressmen who met with Carter delivered a letter from 67 representatives who said they will switch their votes and oppose the final bill if it is too generous to the oil and gas industry. Only 34 would have to switch their votes to defeat a compromise bill from the House-Senate conference committee.

Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, set the stage for the first Senate test on the energy tax bill by offering the amendment reviving a scaled-down version of Carter's proposed tax on the industrial use of oil and gas.

Metzenbaum said his plan would save 80 per cent of the estimated 1.5 million barrels of oil per day that Carter's own industrial tax would save by 1985. Current U.S. usage is about 18 million barrels a day.

But, the Ohio Democrat said, his plan would be more equitable because his tax would hit only plants built in the future and those existing facilities that can convert to coal.

Long, whose committee had rejected Carter's industrial tax on a 14-4 vote, opposes the Metzenbaum plan as well.

Dispute Over Racial Quotas Threatens To Delay Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — A dispute over racial quotas threatens to delay $4 billion in federally-funded jobs and could have an important impact on black businessmen trying to break into the construction industry.

The dispute, now moving through the courts, also affects millions of dollars of public works projects in several states and cities which have rules to assure that a share of the work goes to businesses owned by blacks and other racial minorities.

"This is hard to explain but it's of interest to every working man," said a Justice Department official familiar with the issues.

The argument involves a $4 billion public works program approved by Congress last spring.

Congress earmarked 10 per cent of the federal money for businesses owned by racial minorities. This was designed to compensate for the past discrimination which kept blacks and other minorities out of the construction industry.

The Justice Department, which now is defending the constitutionality of the program, calls the 10 per cent requirement a proper goal. Department officials note that the 10 per cent rule can be waived if no qualified minority firms are interested in a particular project.

But the requirement angered the Associated General Contractors, a national trade association which represents about 8,000 general contractors across the country.

The association's 400-member board last month voted unanimously to challenge the restriction as an unconstitutional quota.

Association chapters in California, Pennsylvania, Indiana and Montana have brought suits in federal courts in those states. John Ellis, assistant executive director of the organization, says suits are planned in at least five other states.

Both sides agree that the case is likely to wind up in the Supreme Court. And that would mean it could take several months before a final judgment on the program's constitutionality.

Meanwhile, the government is likely to be blocked from awarding the construction money, at least in some parts of the country.

Congress had intended the program as swift medicine for the economically-depressed construction industry. The Commerce Department, which is in charge of passing out the money, was supposed to make sure all of the contracts were awarded and construction had started by the end of December.

"Our contention is that this is an illegal requirement," Ellis said. "It's much more than affirmative action. This is essentially a racial quota, and it means that the nonminority segment of the construction industry is precluded from competing for 10 per cent of the work."

On the other side, Justice Department lawyers note that blacks and other racial minorities make up 17 per cent of the U.S. population, yet minority-owned construction firms account for barely more than 1 per cent of gross receipts in the industry.

The law "does not require a contractor to meet the 10 per cent goal where it is in fact unattainable," government lawyers have said. "It merely requires that he make a good faith effort."

Pneumonia Vaccine May Be Available By End Of Year

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A pneumonia vaccine may be available by the end of the year that would, for the first time, catch America's fifth biggest killer before the infection sets in, researchers said.

If the vaccine is approved by the federal Food and Drug Administration, it will be given nationally to three groups of people highly susceptible to pneumonia: the elderly, children with missing or defective spleens, and the estimated 50,000 persons — mostly blacks — who suffer from sickle cell anemia, the researchers said.

The results of a two-year study of 77 San Francisco Bay area black children with sickle cell who had been immunized by an experimental vaccine were announced at a news conference Wednesday by a team of researchers from the University of California at San Francisco.

"We have not seen adverse effects other than some local pain and fever," said Dr. Arthur Ammann, a UCSF director of pediatric immunology. "We feel it is a very safe vaccine."

Ammann suggested the vaccine eventually could join the arsenal of traditional immunizations, like polio, given all children.

Joining Ammann at the conference were Dr. William Mentzer and Dr. Joseph Addiego, both of UCSF. Results of their study were published today in The New England Journal of Medicine.

The vaccine is an "effective preventive treatment for one of the most important causes of death for children with sickle cell," Mentzer said. "We believe that cause of death can virtually be eliminated by prior immunization."

Despite antibiotics, pneumonia kills an estimated 25,000 Americans annually, doctors said. For some persons, the infection spreads through the body too quickly for drugs to be effective.

Heart disease is the most frequent cause of death in the United States, followed by cancer, accidents and cerebral vascular disorders.

The UCSF study found for the 77 children tested, the vaccine was 100 per cent effective in guarding against the "pneumococcus" bacteria, which causes pneumonia and other diseases.

Doctors said they also found the vaccine effective in 19 children whose spleens were missing or defective and were easy targets for the infection.

A similar vaccine was found effective for older adults in a series of tests just completed by Dr. Robert Austrian at the University of Pennsylvania, Ammann said.

The vaccine awaiting FDA sanction is a refinement of one introduced in the 1940s and was produced by Merck, Sharpe and Dohme, he said. It acts against 14 different types of the pneumococcal organism which account for some 90-95 per cent of the infections, he said.

Ammann said he expected the FDA's approval by December and thereafter the vaccine would be available for the three groups of patients.

Ammann said testing of the vaccine for normal children is continuing. He predicted that within three to four years it might be available to all children between the ages of nine months and four years as a preventive measure.

Market Report

NEW YORK (AP) —The stock market advanced broadly today, riding the momentum of Wednesday's strong rally.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 1.73 to 815.14 in the first half hour.

Gainers took a 5-2 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said the rally was fueled by the assertion of Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur Burns that the Fed would stick with its goal of curbing inflation by restraining the growth of the money supply.

They also noted encouragement over resistance from some leading California banks to the latest increase in the prime lending rate from 7½ to 7¾ per cent.

Dow Chemical was the early volume leader among NYSE issues, up ¼ at 27½.

On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average jumped 11.87 to 813.41 for its best gain since it picked up 13.06 points last April 12.

Advances outnumbered declines by about a 5-2 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume hit a three-month high of 24.86 million shares against 23.59 million in the previous session.

The NYSE's composite index rose .55 to 50.41.

Forecast For The Fields

By The Associated Press Here is the agriculture weather advisory for Ohio provided by the National Weather Service:

Patchy fog and extensive cloud cover lingers across much of the state, but clearing is expected this afternoon. A cold front is drifting southward and should move through the state allowing a large high pressure center to slowly become the dominant weather force.

FIELD OPERATIONS — Field activities will suffer additional delays again today, but better drying conditions are expected. Evaporative loss rates will accelerate and will near 0.15 inch daily Friday through Monday. Soils will firm slowly, but by Saturday field activities will be back to normal statewide.

CORN HARVEST — Corn harvest will resume as soon as fields firm enough to support equipment. Combine weather will be excellent through Monday.

SOYBEANS — Soybeans will dry back slowly, but by Saturday should be ready for harvest. Soybean harvest weather will be nearly ideal Saturday through Monday.

HAYING — Haying weather will be good today through Monday. New cuts that hit the ground today will have enough time to complete the curing process in the field. Turning early in the weekend will help hurry drying and allow an early Monday baling or stacking.

TOBACCO — Tobacco barn humidity levels will range from afternoon lows below 40 per cent to near saturation each evening. Inside levels should be held as constant as possible to prevent frequent movement case.

'Guys And Dolls' Musical Sheded For December

The Roundtown Player's 1977 musical, "Guys and Dolls," will be presented on Memorial Stage Dec. 1, 2, 3, 4, 8, 9, and 10.

The musical fable of Broadway will begin at 8:30 p.m. each evening except Dec. 4 which will be a matinee. The cast includes 22 characters plus dancers and singers.

Audiences will hear 18 musical numbers including "A Bushel and a Peck," "If I Were A Bell," and "Luck Be a Lady."

Mark a date on the calendar to see this musical. Tickets will go on sale in the latter part of November.

RECITAL — Gayle (left) and Jay Sharrett (seated) will present musical selections 3 p.m. Sunday at St. Philip's Episcopal Church. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Martin R. Sharrett, 163 Montclair Ave. and study under Clara Teegardin, organist and choir director at St. Philip's. Gayle studies voice and piano and Jay studies piano. Clara Teegardin also teaches music theory and organ. The public is cordially invited.

Balance Of Trade Improving

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. balance-of-trade picture improved in September when the United States sold more goods abroad than in any month in history, the Commerce Department said today.

However, the U.S. trade balance still showed a deficit for the month. But the deficit of $1.7 billion was a sharp drop from the $2.7 billion deficit for August and the smallest since a $1.2 billion deficit in May.

For the year, the United States has bought $19.2 billion more in foreign goods than it has sold abroad. The deficit could reach a record $30 billion for the year, administration officials have said.

The record exports for September totalled $10.9 billion, surpassing the $10.4 billion recorded in December 1976, the previous high. Most of the increase was in machinery and transport equipment, such as autos, manufactured goods, chemicals and food and live animals.

While exports rose 14.2 per cent, imports increased by about 3.3 per cent, mainly because of more imports of petroleum products.

The Carter administration has said almost all of the trade imbalance this year is caused by U.S. imports of oil from the Middle East. On his current Middle East trip, Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal has been trying to persuade oil exporters to keep prices down, saying it is in their best interests.

Out of $12.6 billion in imports, petroleum accounted for $3.7 billion, an increase from $3.3 billion in August.

A growing trade deficit can often take away jobs from American workers and have a slackening effect on the economy. But U.S. officials say other countries have been unable to afford American products as the U.S. economy has improved more rapidly than the economy of purchasing countries.

Among exports, all categories increased in September, except aircraft, soybeans, grain sorghum and a few miscellaneous commodities.

In other economic news, Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur F. Burns, criticizing the Carter administration's economic policies, has said the country needs less spending and more investment.

House Leader Opposes ERA Extension

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican Leader John Rhodes, who supported the Equal Rights Amendment when it was before Congress, opposes an extension of the seven-year ratification deadline.

The legislatures of 35 states have approved the amendment, which will die March 22, 1979, unless Congress extends the deadline another seven years.

Two-thirds of the states must approve the proposal for it to become law. Rhodes' home state, Arizona, has not ratified it.

"I voted to bring the ERA out and submit it to the nation because it was an important question," Rhodes said in an interview Wednesday. "It seems to me that the question will have been decided by the time the seven years is up and it will not be wise to extend it."

Congresswomen pushing for the extension argue that the issue of equal rights for women is a much livelier one now than when Congress first acted on it and that the states should have more time to decide.

Rhodes said the focus should be on state and federal laws to "do whatever is necessary to provide equal rights."

Twenty House members, including Majority Leader Jim Wright of Texas; Majority Whip John Brademas of Indiana; Rep. Peter Rodino, D-N.J., the judiciary committee chairman; and the ranking GOP member of the ways and means committee, Barber Conable of New York, are co-sponsoring the proposal to extend the ERA deadline.

Rep. Bruce Vento, D-Minn., is circulating a petition among his colleagues urging Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill to help push the extension through the House.

In another development, the U.S. Conference of Mayors named a task force headed by San Antonio Mayor Lila Cockrell to work for the amendment.

Task force members are the mayors of Birmingham, Ala.; Chicago; Los Angeles; Peoria, Ill.; San Jose, Calif.; Atlanta; Oklahoma City; New Haven, Conn.; Milwaukee; Columbus, Ohio; and Detroit.

Market Report

NEW YORK (AP) —The stock market advanced broadly today, riding the momentum of Wednesday's strong rally.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 1.73 to 815.14 in the first half hour.

Gainers took a 5-2 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said the rally was fueled by the assertion of Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur Burns that the Fed would stick with its goal of curbing inflation by restraining the growth of the money supply.

They also noted encouragement over resistance from some leading California banks to the latest increase in the prime lending rate from 7½ to 7¾ per cent.

Dow Chemical was the early volume leader among NYSE issues, up ¼ at 27½.

On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average jumped 11.87 to 813.41 for its best gain since it picked up 13.06 points last April 12.

Advances outnumbered declines by about a 5-2 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume hit a three-month high of 24.86 million shares against 23.59 million in the previous session.

The NYSE's composite index rose .55 to 50.41.

Porno Bill Would Penalize Parents

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House-passed bill aimed at the child pornography trade would penalize parents who knowingly allow their children to be used by others for pornography or prostitution as well as penalize those who used them.

The bill, approved Tuesday by a 420-0 vote, would prohibit the interstate transportation of boys with the intent of having them engage in prostitution. The transportation of girls is already illegal under the Mann Act.

The prohibition against using children in acts of "sexually explicit conduct for the purposes of the promotion of printed or filmed matter depicting such ... conduct" would apply to those under the age of 16.

Maximum penalties for offenses would be 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

The Senate also has passed legislation aimed at child pornography. Differences between the House and Senate bills will be worked out by a joint conference committee.

Those who transport or sell the material produced would not be covered by the proposed sanctions.

A separate measure penalizing distributors and sellers of pornography in which children are used, as well as those involved in the production, was passed by the House Sept. 29 on a 375-to-12 vote.

Existing anti-pornography laws apply mostly to the mailing, distribution and importation of obscene materials and not to the use and abuse of children in their production.

A Page Of Opinion

Expert Reorganizers

In Washington, it is something of a standard joke that when an agency doesn't know what to do, it reorganizes. Whatever critics may think of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, they will agree on one point — the agency certainly knows how to reorganize.

It ought to. For the 20th time in eight years HUD is reorganizing. This time the chairs may be shuffled a bit more extensively than usual. About 9 percent of HUD's 15,250 employees are to be given new assignments.

As a way of explaining the latest reorganization, Patricia Harris, HUD Secretary, said: "Waste and inefficiency never housed a needy family and never rebuilt a distressed city." That is quite true. It also is true that an agency which constantly changes the names on office doors and overhauls the organization chart cuts down on incoming complaints. Whoever it is the critic wants to see probably moved yesterday and his telephone won't be connected until next month.

The Sexist's View

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE
NEW YORK (KFS) — "The American male is stupidly succumbing to the idea that there can be equality in marriage, or in any other relationship with a woman," a reader has written.

"In so doing, he is destroying himself. Not only himself, but his woman."

The man who sent this letter claims to be 38, and unmarried - for reasons which are obvious:

"I do not believe in equality for women, because women neither understand nor accept such a division. Women must either dominate or be dominated. The idea of total sharing is complete myth."

"I am not advocating male brutishness when I say that a man should dominate a woman. This relationship seems so instinctively right that I'm sure nature intended it thus."

Otherwise, why do so many women become hard and cynical and frustrated when they are 'on top'?

"In this boring battle of the sexes (an old but still appropriate term), it is the male who holds the supreme ace - if he only realized it and could act on it," the letter goes on.

"By her very nature, a woman must have love and tenderness. She must have the security of feeling needed and wanted and respected: otherwise, her whole existence is empty and meaningless, no matter how many academic degrees or material substitutes she may acquire."

"A man, on the other hand, can find physical satisfaction in an extramarital relationship, and emotional fulfillment in his work. This is an enormous advantage. It means that any time he wants to reduce a woman's life to something superficial and all but hollow, he has only to treat her with continuous coldness and contempt."

"She would then become vindictive, at first. But since vindictiveness would only justify the original disdain, she must finally, inevitably, become warm and loving and feminine - of necessity - if she is to win back the man's love and respect."

"It is only when a woman is forcibly reminded to be warm, loving and feminine that she is worthy of a man's love and respect. But the majority of American women are dominating, greedy, grasping, calculating, absurdly ambitious, academically intelligent, frustrated and attractive - a horrible combination."

The letter was unsigned. To prevent lynching.

Ah, it's such an old-fashioned attitude. And expressed with such bitterness. Slightly revolutionary as well: what if men should take the unknown writer's suggestion and withhold affection from equality-seeking women? That would be a sexually calculating maneuver - the kind of maneuver once associated with females.

As psychiatrist Edrita Fried said (quoted in this space a few days ago), "The old mystique of the childbearing, sexually calculating female creates fear in the male. The 'unisex movement' - the trend toward male and female likenesses in appearance, attire, social roles and life styles - breaks down the male fear."

So if the roles are reversed, and men withhold their love, will women begin fearing their husbands?

It's something to think about. Not much, but something.

Whether sexual equality is responsible or not, the proportion of the population choosing a non-family life increases. By the mid-1990s, Columbia University sociologist Amiti Etzioni has estimated, there could be "few families left" in America. "Why are far fewer observers expressing alarm over the exhaustion of the family than over the depletion of our oil reserves?" he asks. One reason, he feels, is that alternatives to the traditional American nuclear family - such as communes,

"extended families," rotating partners or "open marriages" - are preferable.

"The common denominator of all these family substitutes is that they do not last, are highly unstable, constitute revolving-door unions, rather than a family."

Etzioni attributes the decline to two major U.S. trends: women's liberation, and the idea that wives are less dependent on their husbands; and the increased concern with personal satisfaction.

Warning that this attitude will result in "more neuroses - not more fulfillment" adversely affecting the next generation of children Etzioni advises: "If people can come to realize that the pursuit of the 'happily ever after' is quixotic, the more willingly they will learn to accept imperfect, as distinct from rotten, marriages."

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Some of the nation's medium-size companies, already experiencing difficulties in raising capital, are distressed over the possibility that capital gains might be taxed as ordinary income.

If it happens, they say, their ability to grow and innovate and create jobs will be seriously curtailed. And they wish to remind you, these are three of their most valued contributions to economic society.

The Treasury Department already has coupled its recommendations for a reduction in the double taxation of dividends with one that in effect would raise the rate on capital gains, such as from long-term stock investments.

Says the Committee of Publicly Owned Companies: The very largest, mature, established companies clearly would benefit from lower taxes on dividends. But we are growing concerns; we don't pay big dividends; we need capital.

A consequence of the Treasury proposal, the committee suggests, might be to channel funds into established, dividend-paying companies that normally attract conservative investors, and deny funds to growing companies, which traditionally attract individual risk-takers.

In a position paper just released, the committee observes that capital is invested in small-and medium-size companies "with few exceptions, only because of the prospect of capital gains" rather than dividend payouts.

The committee is made up of several hundred "second tier" and "third tier" companies, so-called to distinguish them from the very largest 50 or 100 corporations. Sometimes they are called "red chip" and "white chip."

Such companies long have felt they were all but totally ignored by institutional investors, many of whom have limited their analyses and investments to the dividend-paying top tier only. Smaller companies, they say, have been starved for capital, and instead have had to raise their debt levels.

Adding to the problem was the enactment of the Employees Retirement Income Securities Act of 1974, which called on pension fund managers to exercise prudence in their investment of retirement funds.

In the absence of a clear definition, prudence was largely interpreted to mean a restriction on investments to the least risky, mature, dividend-paying corporations. Risk-taking came to be considered too risky.

Add to this the problem of inflation, which "further adds to the risk of waiting for growth to result in capital gains," the committee suggests, and the issue becomes one of survival for smaller, innovative companies.

"We may assume that huge, prosperous established enterprises like General Electric, General Motors and AT&T will be able to maintain their corporate programs following the enactment of the measures under consideration."

"Also, some investors may receive additional after-tax current income from their investments in the stocks of companies of this sort as a result of the proposed reduction of the tax burden on dividend payments and on top-bracket taxpayers."

"But," the statement asks, "what about the small, entrepreneurial, developing companies that do not pay dividends or pay only minuscule dividends; that have little prospect of paying dividends for many years? Who will invest in the equity of these companies if the ... proposals become law?"

The committee maintains that a major weakening of the capital gains incentive took place in 1969 when the maximum tax rate was increased to 35 percent from 25 percent, resulting in these consequences:

—The number of individual shareowners has declined by 6 million.

—Individual investors have been net sellers of $21 billion in equity securities since 1970.

—Only 921 new issues of common stock were marketed in the four years that ended June 30, 1977, compared with 1,792 new issues in 1969 alone.

The issue, the committee maintains, is not just how we tax income, but whether we really want to channel the nation's investment funds into large, conservative companies at the expense of smaller, growing concerns.

And related to that are the other issues of whether we want to encourage small investors, risk-taking, competition from newer companies, economic growth and innovation.

Today is Thursday, Oct. 27, the 300th day of 1977. There are 65 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1806, an army under Napoleon Bonaparte occupied the German city of Berlin.

On this date:

In 1651, the Irish city of Limerick surrendered to the British after a long siege.

In 1659, two Quakers, William Robinson and Mamaduke Stevenson, were hanged for returning to the Massachusetts Bay Colony after being banned.

In 1858, the 28th American president, Theodore Roosevelt, was born in New York City.

In 1920, the League of Nations transferred its headquarters from London to Geneva.

In 1942, during World War II, the U.S. government set a ceiling on salaries of $25,000 after taxes.

In 1973, a United Nations peace-keeping force arrived in Cairo to try to set up a lasting cease-fire between Israeli and Arab forces.

Ten years ago: The United States and Mexico formally settled a boundary dispute which had defied solution for nearly a century.

Five years ago: President Richard Nixon announced the first sale of American corn to China.

One year ago: U.S. government sources said a sweeping investigation of South Korean political influence in Washington was under way, and number of congressmen might be involved.

Today's birthdays: Actress Ruby Dee is 53 years old. Actress Teresa Wright is 58.

Thought for today: Most folks are about as happy as they make up their minds to be — President Abraham Lincoln, 1809-1865.

"A wheel? Who needs a wheel? What I need is a hair dryer!"

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I'm a retired registered nurse. I was listening through a stethoscope to my husband's heart. It sounds erratic to me; it skips beats and changes rhythm. He is 53 and 6 feet 3½ inches tall. He has a history of high blood pressure which is now under control. He jogs a mile twice a week and jumps rope in between. What sort of medicine should he be taking to regulate his heartbeat? He does have a yearly physical examination, including an electrocardiogram.

Mrs. B.S., Pa.

Dear Mrs. S.:
You cannot possibly be retired so long from the field of medicine not to have some inkling of the injustice you are doing your husband.

The fact that he has a regular yearly examination does not mean that he will get two demerits for making a telephone call to his doctor to report his irregular heartbeats. There is no law that says that anyone with a problem cannot see his doctor more than once a year.

Now, ask yourself this question. Does it make sense for anyone with high blood pressure (controlled or not controlled) to jog and jump rope when there is any irregularity to the heart?

Many irregularities of the heart are of no importance. Others are very significant. There are now dozens of excellent drugs available to control irregularities of the heart. But before any of them can be used by your husband the exact cause must first be determined.

May I make this suggestion? Get rid of your stethoscope.

I am a person of moderate means. I have finally been able to scrape together enough money to buy a hearing aid. It does improve my hearing considerably. Now my big problem is that I constantly have to buy new batteries after I use the aid for a short while. The cost and the nuisance are getting me down.

Mrs. J. T. O., Fla.

Dear Mrs. O.:
It is true that the high cost of hearing aids is compounded by the need to replace batteries regularly. The life cycle of a hearing aid battery is very short.

There is a new rechargeable nickel-cadmium battery that is said to last 16 hours on one charging, and can be recharged about 500 times.

The manufacturers say that the battery can be used with hearing aids in eyeglass frames as well as with the regular aids.

The batteries are said to last about three years, with little or no change in strength. If they fulfill their promise this will be an enormous boon to hearing aid users. They are manufactured by Varta Batteries, 85 Executive Boulevard, Elmsford, N.Y.

Expert Reorganizers

In Washington, it is something of a standard joke that when an agency doesn't know what to do, it reorganizes. Whatever critics may think of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, they will agree on one point — the agency certainly knows how to reorganize.

It ought to. For the 20th time in eight years HUD is reorganizing. This time the chairs may be shuffled a bit more extensively than usual. About 9 percent of HUD's 15,250 employees are to be given new assignments.

As a way of explaining the latest reorganization, Patricia Harris, HUD Secretary, said: "Waste and inefficiency never housed a needy family and never rebuilt a distressed city." That is quite true. It also is true that an agency which constantly changes the names on office doors and overhauls the organization chart cuts down on incoming complaints. Whoever it is the critic wants to see probably moved yesterday and his telephone won't be connected until next month.

The Sexist's View

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE
NEW YORK (KFS) — "The American male is stupidly succumbing to the idea that there can be equality in marriage, or in any other relationship with a woman," a reader has written.

"In so doing, he is destroying himself. Not only himself, but his woman."

The man who sent this letter claims to be 38, and unmarried - for reasons which are obvious:

"I do not believe in equality for women, because women neither understand nor accept such a division. Women must either dominate or be dominated. The idea of total sharing is complete myth."

"I am not advocating male brutishness when I say that a man should dominate a woman. This relationship seems so instinctively right that I'm sure nature intended it thus."

Otherwise, why do so many women become hard and cynical and frustrated when they are 'on top'?

"In this boring battle of the sexes (an old but still appropriate term), it is the male who holds the supreme ace - if he only realized it and could act on it," the letter goes on.

"By her very nature, a woman must have love and tenderness. She must have the security of feeling needed and wanted and respected: otherwise, her whole existence is empty and meaningless, no matter how many academic degrees or material substitutes she may acquire."

"A man, on the other hand, can find physical satisfaction in an extramarital relationship, and emotional fulfillment in his work. This is an enormous advantage. It means that any time he wants to reduce a woman's life to something superficial and all but hollow, he has only to treat her with continuous coldness and contempt."

"She would then become vindictive, at first. But since vindictiveness would only justify the original disdain, she must finally, inevitably, become warm and loving and feminine - of necessity - if she is to win back the man's love and respect."

"It is only when a woman is forcibly reminded to be warm, loving and feminine that she is worthy of a man's love and respect. But the majority of American women are dominating, greedy, grasping, calculating, absurdly ambitious, academically intelligent, frustrated and attractive - a horrible combination."

The letter was unsigned. To prevent lynching.

Ah, it's such an old-fashioned attitude. And expressed with such bitterness. Slightly revolutionary as well: what if men should take the unknown writer's suggestion and withhold affection from equality-seeking women? That would be a sexually calculating maneuver - the kind of maneuver once associated with females.

As psychiatrist Editha Fried said (quoted in this space a few days ago), "The old mystique of the childbearing, sexually calculating female creates fear in the male. The 'unisex movement' - the trend toward male and female likenesses in appearance, attire, social roles and life styles - breaks down the male fear."

So if the roles are reversed, and men withhold their love, will women begin fearing their husbands?

It's something to think about. Not much, but something.

Whether sexual equality is responsible or not, the proportion of the population choosing a non-family life increases. By the mid-1990s, Columbia University sociologist Amiti Etzioni has estimated, there could be "few families left" in America. "Why are far fewer observers expressing alarm over the exhaustion of the family than over the depletion of our oil reserves?" he asks. One reason, he feels, is that alternatives to the traditional American nuclear family - such as communes,

"extended families," rotating partners or "open marriages" - are preferable.

"The common denominator of all these family substitutes is that they do not last, are highly unstable, constitute revolving-door unions, rather than a family."

Etzioni attributes the decline to two major U.S. trends: women's liberation, and the idea that wives are less dependent on their husbands; and the increased concern with personal satisfaction.

Warning that this attitude will result in "more neuroses - not more fulfillment" adversely affecting the next generation of children Etzioni advises: "If people can come to realize that the pursuit of the 'happily ever after' is quixotic, the more willingly they will learn to accept imperfect, as distinct from rotten, marriages."

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Some of the nation's medium-size companies, already experiencing difficulties in raising capital, are distressed over the possibility that capital gains might be taxed as ordinary income.

If it happens, they say, their ability to grow and innovate and create jobs will be seriously curtailed. And they wish to remind you, these are three of their most valued contributions to economic society.

The Treasury Department already has coupled its recommendations for a reduction in the double taxation of dividends with one that in effect would raise the rate on capital gains, such as from long-term stock investments.

Says the Committee of Publicly Owned Companies: The very largest, mature, established companies clearly would benefit from lower taxes on dividends. But we are growing concerns; we don't pay big dividends; we need capital.

A consequence of the Treasury proposal, the committee suggests, might be to channel funds into established, dividend-paying companies that normally attract conservative investors, and deny funds to growing companies, which traditionally attract individual risk-takers.

In a position paper just released, the committee observes that capital is invested in small and medium-size companies "with few exceptions, only because of the prospect of capital gains" rather than dividend payouts.

The committee is made up of several hundred "second tier" and "third tier" companies, so-called to distinguish them from the very largest 50 or 100 corporations. Sometimes they are called "red chip" and "white chip."

Such companies long have felt they were all but totally ignored by institutional investors, many of whom have limited their analyses and investments to the dividend-paying top tier only. Smaller companies, they say, have been starved for capital, and instead have had to raise their debt levels.

Adding to the problem was the enactment of the Employees Retirement Income Securities Act of 1974, which called on pension fund managers to exercise prudence in their investment of retirement funds.

In the absence of a clear definition, prudence was largely interpreted to mean a restriction on investments to the least risky, mature, dividend-paying corporations. Risk-taking came to be considered too risky. Add to this the problem of inflation, which "further adds to the risk of waiting for growth to result in capital gains," the committee suggests, and the issue becomes one of survival for smaller, innovative companies.

"We may assume that huge, prosperous established enterprises like General Electric, General Motors and AT&T will be able to maintain their corporate programs following the enactment of the measures under consideration."

"Also, some investors may receive additional after-tax current income from their investments in the stocks of companies of this sort as a result of the proposed reduction of the tax burden on dividend payments and on top-bracket taxpayers."

"But," the statement asks, "what about the small, entrepreneurial, developing companies that do not pay dividends or pay only minuscule dividends; that have little prospect of paying dividends for many years? Who will invest in the equity of these companies if the ... proposals become law?"

The committee maintains that a major weakening of the capital gains incentive took place in 1969 when the maximum tax rate was increased to 35 percent from 25 percent, resulting in these consequences:

—The number of individual shareholders has declined by 6 million.

—Individual investors have been net sellers of $21 billion in equity securities since 1970.

—Only 921 new issues of common stock were marketed in the four years that ended June 30, 1977, compared with 1,792 new issues in 1969 alone.

The issue, the committee maintains, is not just how we tax income, but whether we really want to channel the nation's investment funds into large, conservative companies at the expense of smaller, growing concerns.

And related to that are the other issues of whether we want to encourage small investors, risk-taking, competition from newer companies, economic growth and innovation.

Carter Is His Own Bellhop

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter no longer hops off airplanes hauling a garment bag, but he demonstrated during his recent Western swing that campaign habits die hard.

When Carter's limousine pulled up at the Century Plaza Hotel in Los Angeles, where he was to spend the night, the President headed straight for the vehicle's trunk and removed not only a garment bag but also a small black suitcase.

The White House naval aide made a serious attempt to unburden his boss, but Carter was adamant about serving as his own bellman.

During last year's campaign, Carter and his garment bag sometimes seemed inseparable, to the point where a Washington society columnist suggested that if the American people wanted a bellhop in the Oval Office, they would elect one.

Carter subsequently laid down the burdens of baggage for the larger ones of his new office. Now he customarily carries nothing larger than a thin briefcase, if that.

Departing for a recent weekend visit to Camp David, Md., however, Amy Carter put her father back in the baggage handling business. Emerging from the White House with a hatbox in hand, Amy intercepted her father near the ramp of a waiting helicopter and thrust the luggage at him.

While the President stood on the lawn, looking bemused, Amy raced off toward some White House sedans parked 50 yards away. Her Secret Service bodyguards gave pursuit.

In a couple of minutes, Amy returned from one of the cars carrying her violin. Practice sessions obviously are a part of her Camp David routine.

During Carter's flight from Denver to Los Angeles last weekend, aides canvassed reporters aboard Air Force One for jokes or one-liners the President might consider using in addressing an evening fund-raising dinner for the Democratic National Committee.

One suggestion was adopted. Courtesy of a newsmen, Carter was able to tell his audience about efforts to involve brother Billy in the affairs of government.

"I had it all arranged," the President reported. "I was going to reorganize and put the CIA and the FBI together. But Billy said he wouldn't head up any agency that he couldn't spell. ..."

In his Los Angeles talk, Carter said he was hopeful the dinner would "raise enough money to have my brother Billy come out and speak next year." After the laughter subsided, the President added, "Billy brings me a lot of good publicity, as you well know."

Carter also poked fun at California Gov. Edmund G. (Jerry) Brown, Jr., seen by some at the White House as his most formidable potential Democratic challenger in 1980.

The President said he had received "a personal handwritten letter" from Brown inviting him to the $1,000-a-plate dinner.

"I decided to come out here anyway," Carter concluded.

Carter Is His Own Bellhop

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter no longer hops off airplanes hauling a garment bag, but he demonstrated during his recent Western swing that campaign habits die hard.

When Carter's limousine pulled up at the Century Plaza Hotel in Los Angeles, where he was to spend the night, the President headed straight for the vehicle's trunk and removed not only a garment bag but also a small black suitcase.

The White House naval aide made a serious attempt to unburden his boss, but Carter was adamant about serving as his own bellman.

During last year's campaign, Carter and his garment bag sometimes seemed inseparable, to the point where a Washington society columnist suggested that if the American people wanted a bellhop in the Oval Office, they would elect one.

Carter subsequently laid down the burdens of baggage for the larger ones of his new office. Now he customarily carries nothing larger than a thin briefcase, if that.

Departing for a recent weekend visit to Camp David, Md., however, Amy Carter put her father back in the baggage handling business. Emerging from the White House with a hatbox in hand, Amy intercepted her father near the ramp of a waiting helicopter and thrust the luggage at him.

While the President stood on the lawn, looking bemused, Amy raced off toward some White House sedans parked 50 yards away. Her Secret Service bodyguards gave pursuit.

In a couple of minutes, Amy returned from one of the cars carrying her violin. Practice sessions obviously are a part of her Camp David routine.

During Carter's flight from Denver to Los Angeles last weekend, aides

canvassed reporters aboard Air Force One for jokes or one-liners the President might consider using in addressing an evening fund-raising dinner for the Democratic National Committee.

One suggestion was adopted. Courtesy of a newsman, Carter was able to tell his audience about efforts to involve brother Billy in the affairs of government.

Dentist Could Solve Her Kissing Problem

DEAR ABBY: I can't sign my name because I don't want to humiliate my husband, but I need some suggestions. We've been married for 20 years and have a lovely family. We've had our ups and downs, but the biggest problem now is my husband's refusal to brush his teeth. It's repulsive.

He's a heavy smoker, which doesn't help his breath any, and he's always having problems with sore gums. He hasn't been to a dentist in years, and his teeth are rotting away.

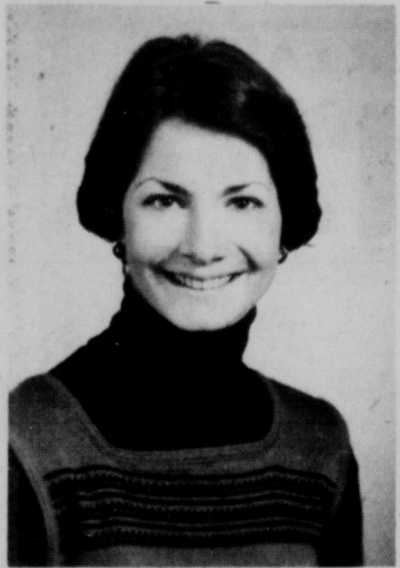

His breath has gotten so bad lately that I told him I had a sore throat and he could kiss me only on the cheek. Now he's complaining that I've had the longest "sore throat" in history, and he's stopped kissing me altogether.

I love my husband and would like to kiss him, but that terrible breath turns me off.

FEELING GUILTY

DEAR FEELING: If you could drag him to a dentist, I'd be all for it. But a grown man who refuses to clean up his act doesn't deserve to be kissed on the lips, so don't feel guilty.

Nuptials Planned

DENA MARIE VAN DYKE

Mr. and Mrs. William D. Van Dyke, Columbus are announcing the engagement of their daughter Dena Marie to Mr. Stephen Ray Cook son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen E. Cook, Ashville.

Miss Van Dyke is a 1977 graduate of Wehrle High School and is currently employed by Battelle Memorial Institute.

Mr. Cook is a 1977 graduate of Teays Valley High School and is a manager for McDonalds Restaurants, Inc.

No definite date has been set for the wedding.

25th Anniversary Celebrated

Mr. and Mrs. Royce Smith of South Bloomingville were honored on October 23 with a party on their 25th wedding anniversary in the home of Mr. Orval Hampshire, with their children as hosts for the occasion.

Helping them enjoy the occasion were: Mr. and Mrs. Orval Hampshire Jr., Mrs. Berneta Whitcraft, David Newman, Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Dolby, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Hampshire and Chrissie, Rev. Paul Mercer, Avonell Hart, Maxine Van Curen, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Whitcraft, Holly and Ty, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Smith and Shelly, Mr. and Mrs. Rick Dolby and Robbie, Todd Smith, Ruth Tatman and Mr. Hampshire.

Refreshments were served by Trudy Dolby and Vicki Smith.

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend stood me up last night. He didn't call me before work this morning to explain, and when I called him later, he got mad at me for being mad at him for standing me up. He said I should have "understood."

Tell me, what are the ethics in such a situation?

STOOD UP

DEAR STOOD UP: Your boyfriend has learned that the best defense is a strong defense. It's bad enough that he stood you up, but if you could reach him by phone later, he could have reached you by phone to explain.

LOSE him, unless you are prepared to "understand" a lot of other things you can't understand.

DEAR ABBY: A lady with whom I was well acquainted passed away last week after a lingering illness. Her family was well aware of the hopelessness of her condition. They say after her death, her two teenage daughters were back in school going about their own business as usual, without showing signs of their loss or sorrow in any way.

Their friends and teachers were shocked at this apparent lack of feeling. Am I wrong to feel that way, out of respect to their mother's memory, they should have stayed home for the one day between her death and her funeral?

OLD-FASHIONED

DEAR OLD FASHIONED: How other people handle their grief and react to their losses is a very personal matter. Judge not, lest ye be judged.

Mrs. Kline Hosts Extension Club

Mrs. Dani Kline of Atlanta was hostess for the October meeting of the Wonder Women Home Extension Club.

It was announced that the "Mini College" being sponsored by the extension office is to be held November 10.

The County Home Extension Club's Bazaar will be held November 5 from 1-7 p.m. at the Grange Building. Members who have items for the bazaar should take them to Mrs. Clara Barne's home by November 4. The item should be priced and initials on the item.

Mrs. Clara Barnes is requesting help for the bazaar, persons able to participate should contact Mrs. Barnes.

The lesson on the making of pine cone wreaths was taught by Mrs. Martha Ewing.

The next meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m., November 15 in the home of Mrs. Jill Metzger of Williamsport.

In an effort to keep society news current, The Herald has established the following policy concerning wedding news:

Wedding forms may be obtained at The Herald from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and until noon on Saturday.

It would be helpful to have the wedding form completed and returned with a picture three days before the wedding.

The Herald will make every effort to publish the story and picture on the next day of publication following the wedding providing the forms and picture are returned before the wedding.

No bridal pictures and stories will be accepted if submitted later than 30 days following the ceremony.

Enliven creamed chicken by adding strips of roasted sweet red pepper (the pepper comes in jars).

Resolutions Adopted By NSDAR Continental Congress Discussed

Pickaway Plains Chapter, National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution held their October meeting in the First English Lutheran Church, Ashville, October 16, at 2 p.m.

Miss Dhel Renick, regent, opened the meeting using the DAR Ritual assisted by Mrs. George McGhee, chaplain. Mrs. Richard Hedges, flag chairman, led in the Pledge of Allegiance, followed by the Chapter repeating the American Creed. The President General's Message was read by Mrs. Curtis Cromley.

Miss Helen Mettler, program chairman, introduced Mrs. J. Austin Dowden and Mrs. Mary Alice Greenwood, who gave an Educational Program regarding National Defense. Mrs. Dowden related the four aspects as they had been presented in recent publications of the DAR Magazine, the National Defender, and the Ohio DAR News. They were, First, the meaning of a Republic, a Democracy, and a Federal form of government and the power that rests in the people as granted by our Constitution. It was stressed that Freedom and Responsibility are irrevocably linked — destroy one and the other is lost. One of the grave dangers today seems to be the indifference of too many in voicing and using our voting power.

The Second phase dealt with preparedness of our Common Defense. Detailed contrasts were drawn between U.S.S.R. and the U.S.A. as regards our capabilities and present potential and initiative. Agreements that would limit U.S. armed forces and weapons would put us in an inferior position.

Third, the growing pattern of Cuba since 1959, with the Communist Dictator, Fidel Castro, being a trained and willing puppet of USSR, possess a mighty threat to the Western World. A present move to reestablish diplomatic and trade relations would create a grave danger and would indicate to the world a policy of weakness on the part of the U.S.A.

Last, but foremost today, the Panama Canal. Both pro and con agreements were presented. The Panama Canal is a strategic lifeline for the control of the Western World. To capitulate to the Panamanian Marxist dictator, Torrijos, would betray the freedoms of the Western World which are the result of centuries of striving and development.

A coalition between Torrijos and Castro would constitute a final link in the Red Encirclement of our Nation. Do we want to relinquish a strategic waterway we bought and built and have successfully controlled for some seventy years? The answer is NO.

Our National Defense has four purposes: to do all possible to preserve the priceless heritage of freedom, to protect the Constitution, to maintain our sovereignty, and to keep our country solvent. These are the privileges and duties of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mrs. Greenwood reviewed the twelve resolutions adopted by the Eighty-sixth Continental Congress of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, held April 18-22, at Washington D.C.

The Daughters of the American Revolution oppose any agreements which would limit the Armed Forces and weapons of the United States to an inferior position. To reiterate its continued opposition to the fraudulent treaty of the Genocide Convention. The Treaty has not been invoked by the United Nations in regard to brutal murders committed in Cambodia, Vietnam, etc, but would be invoked against individual Americans. A tax reduction and simplification, not "tax reform" at all levels of government. Alert members to the accelerating decay of our American Republic and urge citizens never to surrender our ideal of personal liberty in exchange for equality on a global scale. Expose the danger that teaching "intredpendence" instead of "independence" in American Schools mentally disarms and alienates our youth.

The National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution emphatically reaffirms its stand that the surrender of the United States sovereignty control of the Panama Canal would constitute a final link in the Red Encirclement of our nation. That we continue to protest the questionable use of public funds for potential lobbying activities. Be aware that Communist Cuba would create grave danger to the United States and would represent enormous diplomatic, economic, and military gains for Cuba and indicate to the world a policy of weakness toward Communism on the part of the United States. Alert members and others to the disastrous effect that a national health insurance plan would have on the overall health care of Americans.

The members of the National Society support the preservation of the electoral college as a Constitutional provision for the rights of individual states and oppose universal voter registration, which expands the power of the federal government and preempts states rights. Urge the government to strengthen and expand law enforcement and intelligence agencies to adequately defend the Nation and its people at home and abroad against terrorism. Advocate conservation of our resources and encourage further exploration and development of private enterprise of oil, gas, and coal as well as further development of nuclear and solar energy alternatives. Do everything possible to counteract the socialist philosophy which is contrary to the concepts of free enterprise. Mrs. Dowden concluded the program with a poem.

Hostesses for the October meeting were: Mrs. Robert Knobe, Mrs. Stanley Bowers, Miss Florence Brown, Mrs. J. Wright Noecker, Mrs. James Dunton, Mrs. Ben Nothstine, Mrs. Chester Rocky, Mrs. T. E. Wilson, Mrs. Harry Speakmen, Mrs. Ralph Woolever, Mrs. Mark Phillips, Mrs. T. L. Cromley and Miss Regina Bluck.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Hampshire and Chrissie of Logan spent Saturday night with their sister, Mrs. Berneta Whitcraft of Circleville, and enjoyed the festivities of the Pumpkin Show. Orval Hampshire, Ruth Tatman, Donna Smith and Todd all of South Bloomingville also spent Friday with Mrs. Whitcraft and enjoyed the Pumpkin Show.

Mary Blain and Dorothy Conley, 517 S. Court St., had as their guests for the Pumpkin Show, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Davis, Mark and Susie, Robert Schierschmidt, Peggy Caudill, Russell Nokes, Terri, Heather and Rusty Madden all of Springfield.

DEAR ABBY: A lady with whom I was well acquainted passed away last week after a lingering illness. Her family was well aware of the hopelessness of her condition. They say after her death, her two teenage daughters were back in school going about their own business as usual, without showing signs of their loss or sorrow in any way.

Their friends and teachers were shocked at this apparent lack of feeling. Am I wrong to feel that way, out of respect to their mother's memory, they should have stayed home for the one day between her death and her funeral?

OLD-FASHIONED

DEAR OLD FASHIONED: How other people handle their grief and react to their losses is a very personal matter. Judge not, lest ye be judged.

Mrs. Kline Hosts Extension Club

Mrs. Dani Kline of Atlanta was hostess for the October meeting of the Wonder Women Home Extension Club.

It was announced that the "Mini College" being sponsored by the extension office is to be held November 10.

The County Home Extension Club's Bazaar will be held November 5 from 1-7 p.m. at the Grange Building. Members who have items for the bazaar should take them to Mrs. Clara Barnes' home by November 4. The item should be priced and initials on the item.

Mrs. Clara Barnes is requesting help for the bazaar, persons able to participate should contact Mrs. Barnes.

The lesson on the making of pine cone wreaths was taught by Mrs. Martha Ewing.

The next meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m., November 15 in the home of Mrs. Jill Metzger of Williamsport.

In an effort to keep society news current, The Herald has established the following policy concerning wedding news:

Wedding forms may be obtained at The Herald from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and until noon on Saturday.

It would be helpful to have the wedding form completed and returned with a picture three days before the wedding.

The Herald will make every effort to publish the story and picture on the next day of publication following the wedding providing the forms and picture are returned before the wedding.

No bridal pictures and stories will be accepted if submitted later than 30 days following the ceremony.

Resolutions Adopted By NSDAR Continental Congress Discussed

Pickaway Plains Chapter, National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution held their October meeting in the First English Lutheran Church, Ashville, October 18, at 2 p.m.

Miss Dhel Renick, regent, opened the meeting using the DAR Ritual assisted by Mrs. George McGhee, chaplain. Mrs. Richard Hedges, flag chairman, led in the Pledge of Allegiance, followed by the Chapter repeating the American Creed. The President General's Message was read by Mrs. Curtis Cromley.

Miss Helen Mettler, program chairman, introduced Mrs. J. Austin Dowden and Mrs. Mary Alice Greenwood, who gave an Educational Program regarding National Defense. Mrs. Dowden related the four aspects as they had been presented in recent publications of the DAR Magazine, the National Defender, and the Ohio DAR News. They were, First, the meaning of a Republic, a Democracy, and a Federal form of government and the power that rests in the people as granted by our Constitution. It was stressed that Freedom and Responsibility are irrevocably linked — destroy one and the other is lost. One of the grave dangers today seems to be the indifference of too many in voicing and using our voting power.

The Second phase dealt with preparedness of our Common Defense. Detailed contrasts were drawn between U.S.S.R. and the U.S.A. as regards our capabilities and present potential and initiative. Agreements that would limit U.S. armed forces and weapons would put us in an inferior position.

Third, the growing pattern of Cuba since 1959, with the Communist Dictator, Fidel Castro, being a trained and willing puppet of USSR, possess a mighty threat to the Western World. A present move to reestablish diplomatic and trade relations would create a grave danger and would indicate to the world a policy of weakness on the part of the U.S.A.

Last, but foremost today, the Panama Canal. Both pro and con agreements were presented. The Panama Canal is a strategic lifeline for the control of the Western World. To capitulate to the Panamanian Marxist dictator, Torrijos, would betray the freedoms of the Western World which are the result of centuries of striving and development.

A coalition between Torrijos and Castro would constitute a final link in the Red Encirclement of our Nation. Do we want to relinquish a strategic waterway we bought and built and have successfully controlled for some seventy years? The answer is NO.

Our National Defense has four purposes: to do all possible to preserve the priceless heritage of freedom, to protect the Constitution, to maintain our sovereignty, and to keep our country solvent. These are the privileges and duties of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mrs. Greenwood reviewed the twelve resolutions adopted by the Eighty-sixth Continental Congress of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, held April 18-22, at Washington D.C.

The Daughters of the American Revolution oppose any agreements which would limit the Armed Forces and weapons of the United States to an inferior position. To reiterate its continued opposition to the fraudulent treaty of the Genocide Convention. The Treaty has not been invoked by the United Nations in regard to brutal murders committed in Cambodia, Vietnam, etc, but would be invoked against individual Americans. A tax reduction and simplification, not "tax reform" at all levels of government. Alert members to the accelerating decay of our American Republic and urge citizens never to surrender our ideal of personal liberty in exchange for equality on a global scale. Expose the danger that teaching "interdependence" instead of "independence" in American Schools mentally disarms and alienates our youth.

The National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution emphatically reaffirms its stand that the surrender of the United States sovereignty control of the Panama Canal would constitute a final link in the Red Encirclement of our nation. That we continue to protest the Here's how we did it!

We obviously can't go into complete detail here — we've got an entire 8-page brochure that does that. But, briefly, we began by doubling the standard amount of insulation to 12" in the ceiling and 6" in the walls and floors. We used 2 x 6 studs in post & beam construction 24" on center, instead of the usual 2 x 4's, 16" on center. And the window area was kept to about 8 to 10% of the floor space.

Value Of Older Buildings To Be Discussed Nov. 6

There will be a slide presentation and a panel discussion relating to the values of the older buildings in Pickaway County 2:30 p.m. Nov. 6 at the Pickaway County Public Library, 165 E. Main St.

The presentation is part of a project sponsored by the Ohio Historical Society and funded in part by the Ohio Program in the Humanities. The program is presented by Pickaway County District Public Library and Friends of the Library.

The presentation will be conducted by Laszlo G. Koe-Krompecher, a partner with Koe-Krompecher Associates, Architects and Engineers, Athens, Ohio. He is past president of the South Central Ohio Preservation Society and was on the faculty of the School of Architecture at Ohio University. The panel consists of Panel Moderator, Dr. David Stewart, author, lecturer and professor of philosophy; Dr. Samuel Crowl, critic, author and associate professor of English at Ohio University.

In the lecture, buildings will be viewed as representing not only a material and economic worth, but also representing certain humane values.

Public Information Meeting On Mental Health Planned

The Paint Valley Mental Health and Mental Retardation Board, Planning Project for Comprehensive Mental Health Services, will hold a Public Meeting on Nov. 3, 7 p.m. in Pickaway Community Building, Route 22 East.

Anna Marie Stott, project director, urges community involvement. "We really want citizens of the community to come and share with us the many stresses and problems they, their friends and others in the community are struggling with. We all face in our lives and the lives of those around us, the pain caused by the death of a loved one, unhappy or broken marriages, conflict between parents and children, the severe pressures on single parent families, the loneliness of isolation, problems of drinking and drug abuse, and many other problems."

Mrs. Billie Costigan, assistant project planner said, "Only by citizens of Pickaway County expressing their views on mental health problems and needed services in Pickaway County can we work toward effectively meeting those needs. I strongly urge citizens to attend this public meeting."

The project planners meet with the Pickaway County Citizens Planning Committee on Sept. 15. Background data on present mental health services was presented and philosophy on comprehensive planning was discussed.

The planning project is designed to study the needs in each county of the Paint Valley Mental Health and Mental Retardation Board's service area, in an effort to offer a broad range of mental health services that will allow an individual to receive the kind of service they need, when they need it.

Red Cross First Aid Weekend Set

Pickaway County residents interested in becoming Red Cross first aid instructors are invited to attend the Hocking Hills First Aid Weekend at Hocking Hills State Park Nov. 18, 19, 20.

According to Etha Mae Wolford, executive secretary of the Pickaway County Chapter of the American Red Cross, there is a great demand for instructors in this county as there is a shortage of persons qualified to teach courses to the public and to industry.

Any person who wishes training as an instructor in first aid or cardiopulmonary resuscitation may attend. In many cases, no previous training for CPR instructor and Multimedia first aid instructor is necessary.

Subjects to be offered will be CPR instructor, multimedia first aid instructor, standard first aid and personal safety instructor, advanced first aid and emergency care instructor and the vital signs course (basic course only).

For more information, call the county Red Cross office. 474-5736.

Dr. Mary V. Holman Returns From College Inauguration

Recently Dr. Mary V. Holman, 140 Lewis Ave., returned from the inauguration ceremonies of Dr. Seymour C. Hyman who became the new president of the William Paterson College in Wayne, New Jersey.

The president brings to his new position experiences in teaching at Ohio University and New York University, research, financing education, facilities, personnel and academic affairs. Prior to coming to New Jersey he was the City University of New York's Deputy Chancellor and executive officer for a faculty of 15,000 and a student body of 200,000.

The William Paterson College is one of six multi-purpose colleges under the direction of the New Jersey Department of Education. Dr. Holman served as dean of students for the college and headed the departments of admissions and registration, health services, housing, financial aid and student government for a rapidly expanding student body.

Dr. Holman's professional career includes high school and college teaching, mental health consultant for public health nurses in connection with a Millbank Foundation health project, social case work with the Board of Children's Guardians of the District of Columbia and the direction of guidance clinics in public schools.

After her retirement as dean she became associated with the Fairleigh Dickinson University where she began the first full-time counselling service. While teaching at Colorado State College she developed a unique Workshop in International Understanding with classrooms in Europe. Students from the continental United States as well as Hawaii and Alaska worked for college credit through a program which sought to understand how our European neighbors think or feel about their own culture and how to live more effectively in one world.

Contacts with Europeans in England, Holland, France, Germany, Switzerland, Italy and course requirements spanned eight months. As a hobby she organized and directed 33 trips abroad and still maintains a deep interest in travel and world affairs.

In 1975 Dr. Holman received the Alumni Distinguished Service Award from the University of Vermont. She has been listed in the 1965-1966 Yearbook in Who's Who in American Education. She has contributed to professional magazines and written a book which deals with the problems of teachers during the decade of the 1940's.

After an absence of over 50 years, Dr. Holman returned to her native Circleville where she is an active member of the Board of Governors' of the Brown Memorial Nursing Home, and a board member of the Franciscan Community Meals and the Pickaway County Historical Society. She belongs to Guild 4 Berger Hospital, the Monday Club, the AAUW Friends of the Library and Senior Citizens.

Mrs. Ruth Bastow, her sister, has returned to Circleville after a career in buying in the United States and abroad. Their parents, Dr. A. W. Holman, practiced medicine and surgery in Circleville for many years and Mrs. Holman directed the music in the Presbyterian Church.

Circleville Bible College Gets GE Grant

COLUMBUS, — Four area schools received a total of $13,726 through the General Electric Foundation's Corporate Alumnus Program, William A. Orme, Foundation Secretary, announced today.

Capital University received $3,520; Circleville Bible College, $3,200; Ohio State University, $3,896, and Ohio Wesleyan University $3,110.

The GE Foundation contributed $6,863, to match a similar amount given these schools by General Electric Company employees during 1976.

Since 1955, when General Electric pioneered this gift matching program, schools in this country have received $21,718,400 in combined GE Foundation Corporate Alumnus Program matching gifts and GE employee contributions.

The Corporate Alumnus Program was part of a $3,829,001 overall educational support package sponsored last year by the GE Foundation, an independent trust established by the General Electric Company in 1952.

Field Study Planned

CAMBRIDGE, Ohio (AP) — Water collecting in a network of abandoned coal mines in Guernsey County will be tested over the next 18 months for use in a proposed coal conversion facility.

The Ohio Department of Natural Resources said the $116,000 study will concentrate on an 18 square-mile area between Cambridge and Senecaville. The region, known as the Cambridge coal field, was mined extensively between 1890 and 1935.

Water collecting in the mines will be measured and rates at which the shafts refill after being pumped will be calculated by the department's division of geological survey.

The water study coincides with a review of the vicinity's suitability as a site for a coal conversion facility, where high sulfur coal would be converted to environmentally preferred low sulfur coal.

Introducing FORD'S BETTER IDEAS FOR '78

featuring the new Fairmont...the Ford in your future.

The Fairmont idea.

Fairmont... a new car built for today, but designed for the years ahead. Fairmont combines fuel efficiency, space efficiency and cost efficiency. It's trim outside, and easy on gas, yet it's roomy inside. Stylish, but it doesn't cost a lot. Designed for driver efficiency. With impressive ride and handling. And excellent visibility all around. That's Fairmont... a whole new line of better ideas.

Fuel efficient.

Fairmont sedans offer the best mileage ratings in its class. Surprisingly, Fairmont's mileage ratings are the same as the little VW Rabbit when both are equipped with automatic transmission.

4 Speed Manual	Automatic Transmission
23 MPG (City)*	22 MPG (City)*

*EPA estimates with 2.3 litre engine. Your mileage may vary depending on your car's condition, optional equipment, and how and where you drive. California and Wagon ratings are lower.

Space efficient.

More than 90% of the head room, leg room, shoulder room of most large cars.

Even with its excellent mileage ratings, Fairmont is not a little car. It's engineered to be space efficient with 90% of the room in the key areas of most large cars. And Fairmont's roomy trunk has a flat floor, so it holds ten assorted pieces of luggage.

Cost efficient.

Fairmont base sticker prices are lower than some little economy cars like Toyota Corona. Fairmont is designed to keep scheduled maintenance costs down, too. 20,000 miles between scheduled tune-ups, 12 months or 10,000 miles between scheduled oil changes.

Compare Fairmont's excellent combination of high mileage ratings, roominess, and low sticker price with any other car sold in America.

More new 1978 ideas to brighten your future driving.

All-New Bronco.
The first 4-wheeler that puts it all together. With a big cube 351 V-8, family-size comfort, a choice of part-time or full-time 4WD with the optional automatic, rear footwell, choice of front bench seat or bucket seats, and many other features.

New Ford Fiesta.
Europe's most successful†† new car... imported from Germany.†† During Ford Fiesta's first six months of sales, it outsold every new nameplate ever introduced in Europe. Engineered to give its driver dramatic performance. With front-wheel drive. Room and comfort for four.

When America needs a better idea, Ford puts it on wheels.

Value Of Older Buildings To Be Discussed Nov. 6

There will be a slide presentation and a panel discussion relating to the values of the older buildings in Pickaway County 2:30 p.m. Nov. 6 at the Pickaway County Public Library, 165 E. Main St.

The presentation is part of a project sponsored by the Ohio Historical Society and funded in part by the Ohio Program in the Humanities. The program is presented by Pickaway County District Public Library and Friends of the Library.

The presentation will be conducted by Laszlo G. Koe-Krompecher, a partner with Koe-Krompecher Associates, Architects and Engineers, Athens, Ohio. He is past president of the South Central Ohio Preservation Society and was on the faculty of the School of Architecture at Ohio University. The panel consists of Panel Moderator, Dr. David Stewart, author, lecturer and professor of philosophy; Dr. Samuel Crowl, critic, author and associate professor of English at Ohio University.

In the lecture, buildings will be viewed as representing not only a material and economic worth, but also representing certain humane values.

Public Information Meeting On Mental Health Planned

The Paint Valley Mental Health and Mental Retardation Board, Planning Project for Comprehensive Mental Health Services, will hold a Public Meeting on Nov. 3, 7 p.m. in Pickaway Community Building, Route 22 East.

Anna Marie Stott, project director, urges community involvement. "We really want citizens of the community to come and share with us the many stresses and problems they, their friends and others in the community are struggling with. We all face in our lives and the lives of those around us, the pain caused by the death of a loved one, unhappy or broken marriages, conflict between parents and children, the severe pressures on single parent families, the loneliness of isolation, problems of drinking and drug abuse, and many other problems."

Mrs. Billie Costigan, assistant project planner said, "Only by citizens of Pickaway County expressing their views on mental health problems and needed services in Pickaway County can we work toward effectively meeting those needs. I strongly urge citizens to attend this public meeting."

The project planners meet with the Pickaway County Citizens Planning Committee on Sept. 15. Background data on present mental health services was presented and philosophy on comprehensive planning was discussed.

The planning project is designed to study the needs in each county of the Paint Valley Mental Health and Mental Retardation Board's service area, in an effort to offer a broad range of mental health services that will allow an individual to receive the kind of service they need, when they need it.

Red Cross First Aid Weekend Set

Pickaway County residents interested in becoming Red Cross first aid instructors are invited to attend the Hocking Hills First Aid Weekend at Hocking Hills State Park Nov. 18, 19, 20.

According to Etha Mae Wolford, executive secretary of the Pickaway County Chapter of the American Red Cross, there is a great demand for instructors in this county as there is a shortage of persons qualified to teach courses to the public and to industry.

Any person who wishes training as an instructor in first aid or cardiopulmonary resuscitation may attend. In many cases, no previous training for CPR instructor and Multimedia first aid instructor is necessary.

Subjects to be offered will be CPR instructor, multimedia first aid instructor, standard first aid and personal safety instructor, advanced first aid and emergency care instructor and the vital signs course (basic course only).

For more information, call the county Red Cross office. 474-5736.

Dr. Mary V. Holman Returns From College Inauguration

Recently Dr. Mary V. Holman, 140 Lewis Ave., returned from the inauguration ceremonies of Dr. Seymour C. Hyman who became the new president of the William Paterson College in Wayne, New Jersey.

The president brings to his new position experiences in teaching at Ohio University and New York University, research, financing education, facilities, personnel and academic affairs. Prior to coming to New Jersey he was the City University of New York's Deputy Chancellor and executive officer for a faculty of 15,000 and a student body of 200,000.

The William Paterson College is one of six multi-purpose colleges under the direction of the New Jersey Department of Education. Dr. Holman served as dean of students for the college and headed the departments of admissions and registration, health services, housing, financial aid and student government for a rapidly expanding student body.

Dr. Holman's professional career includes high school and college teaching, mental health consultant for public health nurses in connection with a Millbank Foundation health project, social case work with the Board of Children's Guardians of the District of Columbia and the direction of guidance clinics in public schools.

After her retirement as dean she became associated with the Fairleigh Dickinson University where she began the first full-time counselling service. While teaching at Colorado State College she developed a unique Workshop in International Understanding with classrooms in Europe. Students from the continental United States as well as Hawaii and Alaska worked for college credit through a program which sought to understand how our European neighbors think or feel about their own culture and how to live more effectively in one world.

Contacts with Europeans in England, Holland, France, Germany, Switzerland, Italy and course requirements spanned eight months. As a hobby she organized and directed 33 trips abroad and still maintains a deep interest in travel and world affairs.

In 1975 Dr. Holman received the Alumni Distinguished Service Award from the University of Vermont. She has been listed in the 1965-1966 Yearbook in Who's Who in American Education. She has contributed to professional magazines and written a book which deals with the problems of teachers during the decade of the 1940's.

After an absence of over 50 years, Dr. Holman returned to her native Circleville where she is an active member of the Board of Governors' of the Brown Memorial Nursing Home, and a board member of the Franciscan Community Meals and the Pickaway County Historical Society. She belongs to Guild 4 Berger Hospital, the Monday Club, the AAUW Friends of the Library and Senior Citizens.

Mrs. Ruth Bastow, her sister, has returned to Circleville after a career in buying in the United States and abroad. Their parents, Dr. A. W. Holman, practiced medicine and surgery in Circleville for many years and Mrs. Holman directed the music in the Presbyterian Church.

Circleville Bible College Gets GE Grant

COLUMBUS, — Four area schools received a total of $13,726 through the General Electric Foundation's Corporate Alumnus Program, William A. Orme, Foundation Secretary, announced today.

Capital University received $3,520; Circleville Bible College, $3,200; Ohio State University, $3,896, and Ohio Wesleyan University $3,110.

The GE Foundation contributed $6,863, to match a similar amount given these schools by General Electric Company employees during 1976.

Since 1955, when General Electric pioneered this gift matching program, schools in this country have received $21,718,400 in combined GE Foundation Corporate Alumnus Program matching gifts and GE employee contributions.

The Corporate Alumnus Program was part of a $3,829,001 overall educational support package sponsored last year by the GE Foundation, an independent trust established by the General Electric Company in 1952.

Field Study Planned

CAMBRIDGE, Ohio (AP) — Water collecting in a network of abandoned coal mines in Guernsey County will be tested over the next 18 months for use in a proposed coal conversion facility.

The Ohio Department of Natural Resources said the $116,000 study will concentrate on an 18 square-mile area between Cambridge and Senecaville. The region, known as the Cambridge coal field, was mined extensively between 1890 and 1935.

Water collecting in the mines will be measured and rates at which the shafts refill after being pumped will be calculated by the department's division of geological survey.

The water study coincides with a review of the vicinity's suitability as a site for a coal conversion facility, where high sulfur coal would be converted to environmentally preferred low sulfur coal.

Arrow KENT. The dress shirt with nothing average about it.

The trend in dress shirts is toward average sleeve lengths. But Arrow's Kent won't be taking part in it.

Kent still comes in exact sleeve lengths as well as exact neck sizes. Add seven button fronts and you have a shirt to fit you as precisely as the suit you're going to wear it with.

There's nothing average about Arrow Kent. Because from Arrow, America's Shirtmaker, you expect a lot more than average.

Introducing
FORD'S BETTER IDEAS FOR '78
featuring the new Fairmont...the Ford in your future.

The Fairmont idea.

Fairmont... a new car built for today, but designed for the years ahead. Fairmont combines fuel efficiency, space efficiency and cost efficiency. It's trim outside, and easy on gas, yet it's roomy inside. Stylish, but it doesn't cost a lot. Designed for driver efficiency. With impressive ride and handling. And excellent visibility all around. That's Fairmont—a whole new line of better ideas.

Fuel efficient.

Fairmont sedans offer the best mileage ratings in its class. Surprisingly, Fairmont's mileage ratings are the same as the little VW Rabbit when both are equipped with automatic transmission.

4 Speed Manual	Automatic Transmission
23 MPG (City)*	22 MPG (City)*

*EPA estimates with 2.3 litre engine. Your mileage may vary depending on your car's condition, optional equipment, and how and where you drive. California and Wagon ratings are lower.

Space efficient.

More than 90% of the head room, leg room, shoulder room of most large cars.

Even with its excellent mileage ratings, Fairmont is not a little car. It's engineered to be space efficient with 90% of the room in the key areas of most large cars. And Fairmont's roomy trunk has a flat floor, so it holds ten assorted pieces of luggage.

Cost efficient.

Fairmont bare sticker prices are lower than some little economy cars like Toyota Corona. Fairmont is designed to keep scheduled maintenance costs down, too. 20,000 miles between scheduled tune-ups, 12 months or 10,000 miles between scheduled oil changes.

Compare Fairmont's excellent combination of high mileage ratings, roominess, and low sticker price with any other car sold in America.

More new 1978 ideas to brighten your future driving.

All-New Bronco.
The first 4-wheeler that puts it all together. With a big cube 351 V-8, family-size comfort, a choice of part-time or full-time 4WD with the optional automatic, rear footwell, choice of front bench seat or bucket seats, and many other features.

New Ford Fiesta.
Europe's most successful... new car... imported from Germany.†† During Ford Fiesta's first six months of sales, it outsold every new nameplate ever introduced in Europe. Engineered to give its driver dramatic performance. With front-wheel drive. Room and comfort for four.

Mr. and Mrs. Graham, Janie Berry, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Love (Cynthia Graham) and family, Thornville, visited Mr. and Mrs. Russell Glenn (Iona Graham) and family of Arcanum, O. on Sunday.

Mrs. Glenn underwent surgery on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Cox recently received a phone call from the Chaplain at the Hays Medical Center, in Kansas, saying Johnny's brother, Sam Cox was a surgical patient in the hospital. Mr. Cox, who is 76 years old, left this area eighteen years ago and the Cox's had not heard from him since.

In a later call to the hospital, they learned Sam had undergone heart surgery.

Mrs. Marie Pine was the honored guest at a surprise birthday party held at her home Oct. 23, with her daughter Mrs. Violet Heath flying in from Colorado for the event.

Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Pine, Alan, Joyce, Susan and Sam, Bob Minshall, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Pine, Nick, Jack and Tammy, Mrs. Norma Van Hoose, Shirley, Roger, Eddie and Jack Walsh, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Van Hoose, Mrs. Bobbie Jenny and Billy and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bigham.

A very enjoyable day was had by all. Her daughter Violet remained for the week to take in the Pumpkin Show.

The community extends its sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Michael Sabine in the loss of their son, Cade Michael, and to the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Kerns and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sabine and other relatives.

Mrs. Ruth Hunt visited last week with her sister and other relatives in Wadsworth, O.

Mrs. Lucia Spangler and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Spangler were Sunday evening dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Kreider, Chillicothe. Claude is recuperating after undergoing surgery at University Hospital.

Don't forget to turn clocks back, one hour, by 2 a.m. Sunday.

This will be the final news report by Ella Mae Jenkins. In the future, anyone having items for Tarlton column should contact Mrs. Letha Murray, 474-1007.

Ohio Unemployment Trust Fund Is In Good Shape

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's unemployment compensation trust fund withstood the drain of last winter's energy-related job layoffs and probably can handle similar problems in the upcoming winter, officials say. The fund stood at $256 million as of Sept. 1, rebuilt to almost exactly the same as a year earlier, with indications that gradual growth noted in recent months will continue.

William B. Papier, director of the research and statistics in the bureau of employment services, says the "philosophy" of the unemployment program is to see that the fund is protected.

"Employer taxes are increased during periods of high employment. There's a built in mechanism that keeps the fund sound," he said.

Papier cited as an example the recession of 1975, when unemployment soared in Ohio, particularly in the auto and steel industries. The trust fund had reached $777 million at the end of 1974, after several years of high employment. "During 1975, more benefits were paid out than for any other year in the history of Ohio," he said.

Last winter's fuel crunch, which caused plant shutdowns for short periods, never was fully measured in terms of job layoffs although officials are sure it was substantial.

During the month from Jan. 17 to Feb. 17 — the coldest weeks of the winter — new claims totaled about 187,000. These are believed to have included about 73,000 which resulted from energy-related factory and business shutdowns. They caused an increase of about 50 per cent from claims filed during the comparable period of 1976.

However, Papier explained that many shutdowns were for one week or less, and that the first week of joblessness is not compensable under Ohio law.

Ohio's unemployment rate fluctuated over the past year from 6.7 per cent in September 1976 to 6.0 at the end of August. However, its February 1977 rate of 8.6 per cent was the only month in which the state figure exceeded the national average.

The state's unemployment trust fund is made up exclusively of employer taxes which pay 100 per cent of the benefits a worker receives during his first 26 weeks of unemployment.

He might qualify for an additional 13 weeks if he still has not found a job. During the extra period, the federal government shares the benefits with the trust fund, on a 50-50 basis.

Currently, the ceiling on benefits in Ohio is no more than half of the weekly wage or $102, whichever is least, for a worker with no dependents. The limits are $154 for a worker for one or two dependents, and $161 for one with three or more dependents.

Halloween Face Can Be Found In The Kitchen

WESTERVILLE, Ohio (AP) — All the ingredients for a Halloween mask can be found in the kitchen.

With the prankish season at hand, safety officials warn kiddies that the masks that make them ghoulish can be hazards to their safety. Also, the dark costumes that conceal their identity can keep them from being seen by unwary motorists.

It need not be so. And the distinguished Halloween face can be limited only by the imagination of the person putting it on.

Prof. Don Paisley of the theater department at Otterbein College says shortening mixed with glycerine, flour and cornstarch provides an opaque base for face makeup. Food coloring can be added for solid colors.

Using that in conjunction with eyebrow pencils, eye shadow, lipstick or face powder can fill in all the spaces with practically any color in the rainbow.

Any rubber-based adhesive, such as rubber cement, can quickly build witches warts or facial scars, just like professional theatrical makeup. Food coloring should stick to the cement if color is needed for effect.

Paisley said simple costumes can be put together with reasonable speed by using scarves, yarn, sheets, castoff shirts, blouses and hats.

Chief ingredient is to make certain the costumes do not limit movement, restrict vision and can be plainly seen on an unlit street after dark.

Masquerade judging. Masqueraders will be judged at the Firehouse after the parade. Age groups include 0-6, 6-12, 12-18 and 18 on up. All entries must be in the parade, which will begin at the Post Office. Prizes will be awarded at the Firehouse, following the parade. Refreshments of pie, hot dogs, coffee and hot chocolate will be sold.

Also the Ladies' Auxiliary will have some tables at the big bazaar to be held at the Tarlton Armory on November 26th, from 9:30 a.m.-7:30 p.m.

Come and support the Ladies' Auxiliary.

Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Kibble, Belpre, O. visited Mrs. Kibble's sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Graham, last week and made their first visit to the Pumpkin Show.

Mr. and Mrs. Graham, Janie Berry, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Love (Cynthia Graham) and family, Thornville, visited Mr. and Mrs. Russell Glenn (Iona Graham) and family of Arcanum, O. on Sunday.

Mrs. Glenn underwent surgery on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Cox recently received a phone call from the Chaplain at the Hays Medical Center, in Kansas, saying Johnny's brother, Sam Cox was a surgical patient in the hospital. Mr. Cox, who is 76 years old, left this area eighteen years ago and the Cox's had not heard from him since.

In a later call to the hospital, they learned Sam had undergone heart surgery.

Mrs. Marie Pine was the honored guest at a surprise birthday party held at her home Oct. 23, with her daughter Mrs. Violet Heath flying in from Colorado for the event.

Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Pine, Alan, Joyce, Susan and Sam, Bob Minshall, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Pine, Nick, Jack and Tammy, Mrs. Norma Van Hoose, Shirley, Roger, Eddie and Jack Walsh, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Van Hoose, Mrs. Bobbie Jenny and Billy and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bigham.

A very enjoyable day was had by all. Her daughter Violet remained for the week to take in the Pumpkin Show.

The community extends its sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Michael Sabine in the loss of their son, Cade Michael, and to the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Kerns and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sabine and other relatives.

Mrs. Ruth Hunt visited last week with her sister and other relatives in Wadsworth, O.

Mrs. Lucia Spangler and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Spangler were Sunday evening dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Kreider, Chillicothe. Claude is recuperating after undergoing surgery at University Hospital.

Don't forget to turn clocks back, one hour, by 2 a.m. Sunday.

This will be the final news report by Ella Mae Jenkins. In the future, anyone having items for Tarlton column should contact Mrs. Letha Murray, 474-1007.

Ohio Unemployment Trust Fund Is In Good Shape

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's unemployment compensation trust fund withstood the drain of last winter's energy-related job layoffs and probably can handle similar problems in the upcoming winter, officials say.

The fund stood at $256 million as of Sept. 1, rebuilt to almost exactly the same as a year earlier, with indications that gradual growth noted in recent months will continue.

William B. Papier, director of the research and statistics in the bureau of employment services, says the "philosophy" of the unemployment program is to see that the fund is protected.

"Employer taxes are increased during periods of high employment. There's a built in mechanism that keeps the fund sound," he said.

Papier cited as an example the recession of 1975, when unemployment soared in Ohio, particularly in the auto and steel industries. The trust fund had reached $777 million at the end of 1974, after several years of high employment. "During 1975, more benefits were paid out than for any other year in the history of Ohio," he said.

Last winter's fuel crunch, which caused plant shutdowns for short periods, never was fully measured in terms of job layoffs although officials are sure it was substantial.

During the month from Jan. 17 to Feb. 17 — the coldest weeks of the winter — new claims totaled about 187,000. These are believed to have included about 73,000 which resulted from energy-related factory and business shutdowns. They caused an increase of about 50 per cent from claims filed during the comparable period of 1976.

However, Papier explained that many shutdowns were for one week or less, and that the first week of joblessness is not compensable under Ohio law.

Ohio's unemployment rate fluctuated over the past year from 6.7 per cent in September 1976 to 6.0 at the end of August. However, its February 1977 rate of 8.6 per cent was the only month in which the state figure exceeded the national average.

The state's unemployment trust fund is made up exclusively of employer taxes which pay 100 per cent of the benefits a worker receives during his first 26 weeks of unemployment.

He might qualify for an additional 13 weeks if he still has not found a job. During the extra period, the federal government shares the benefits with the trust fund, on a 50-50 basis.

Currently, the ceiling on benefits in Ohio is no more than half of the weekly wage or $102, whichever is least, for a worker with no dependents. The limits are $154 for a worker for one or two dependents, and $161 for one with three or more dependents.

Halloween Face Can Be Found In The Kitchen

WESTERVILLE, Ohio (AP) — All the ingredients for a Halloween mask can be found in the kitchen.

With the prankish season at hand, safety officials warn kiddies that the masks that make them ghoulish can be hazards to their safety. Also, the dark costumes that conceal their identity can keep them from being seen by unwary motorists.

It need not be so. And the distinguished Halloween face can be limited only by the imagination of the person putting it on.

Prof. Don Paisley of the theater department at Otterbein College says shortening mixed with glycerine, flour and cornstarch provides an opaque base for face makeup. Food coloring can be added for solid colors.

Using that in conjunction with eyebrow pencils, eye shadow, lipstick or face power can fill in all the spaces with practically any color in the rainbow.

Any rubber-based adhesive, such as rubber cement, can quickly build witches warts or facial scars, just like professional theatrical makeup. Food coloring should stick to the cement if color is needed for effect.

Paisley said simple costumes can be put together with reasonable speed by using scarves, yarn, sheets, castoff shirts, blouses and hats.

Chief ingredient is to make certain the costumes do not limit movement, restrict vision and can be plainly seen on an unlit street after dark.

Solar Heat May Cut Industrial Fuel Bill

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Can solar heat be harnessed effectively in a land of limited sunshine?

General Extrusions Inc. is betting more than a third of a million dollars that it can.

Executives of the aluminum extruding company and its newly formed General Solar Systems Division are keeping one eye on the weather and the other on the array of solar collectors on the plant roof. They already are talking confidently about the system's potential in cutting fuel costs for industry.

Herbert F. Schuler, vice president and general manager of General Extrusions, says he already has a "pretty good idea of what this system can do, and we are sure it is going to be a success."

Bill Kenny, sales manager, said the company is ready to market solar panels at $600 per 4-by-10 foot panel for industrial applications. Each panel, he said, has a potential of 25,000 BTUs for a six-hour day.

Company researchers estimate that the system, which includes a specially designed heat pump, may save more than one million cubic feet of gas for General Extrusions this winter, depending on the amount of sunshine that breaks through the winter skies.

"On days when we don't get enough sunshine, we can use the heat pump to get those few extra degrees we need," said Kenney.

The heat pump built by Westinghouse Electric Corp., working with General's engineers, puts water through a high pressure system to generate higher heat. The pump requires electric power and by itself would provide no energy savings.

"But as a booster to an existing system, where you only need to heat up a few extra degrees, it is ad-

State Aid To Education May Decline

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Higher education officials should expect state aid in "real dollars" to stagnate or actually decline in the next 10 to 16 years, as enrollments stabilize, Budget Director William W. Wilkins warned today.

Wilkins spoke in the Ohio House chamber to about 150 educators attending the 2nd annual Higher Education-State Relations National Conference.

Wilkins said an anticipated decline in enrollments at colleges and universities during the 1980s will be "the most important major issue" facing state governments.

Although the student populations at Ohio campuses increased by 2.5 per cent this autumn, the Board of Regents projects and leveling off or decline in coming years.

Wilkins pinned the falling off to be a lowering in the value that Americans once placed on a college degree.

"The problems ahead are far different and I don't think they will be solved as easily," he said.

Wilkins said there was "little or no evidence" of long range planning at universities, better utilization of space, or efforts to increase cost accountability and teacher accountability.

He said he was aware that such efforts were under way at some institutions, but stressed that lawmakers "need evidence and proof" of this, when the time comes to dole out limited state dollars.

In the 1972 Presidential election, some 82 percent of the votes were cast by professional people such as doctors, lawyers and engineers, and 78 percent by farmers, to lead voters with other occupations.

vantageous," Kenney said. "If we need 170 degrees for an operation, and the solar system furnishes only 140 degrees, we can use the heat pump to bring us up to the temperatures we need."

While all the research so far has been on heating systems, Kenney believes the solar units can be even more effective in industrial air conditioning applications. Mainly because, "where you need air conditioning is where you have sun the most."

He said preliminary studies will be made in the next few weeks on general's solar panels in absorption air conditioning, "but we know our panel can do it. It's just a matter of being able to generate the right temperatures."

"We have no trouble getting those." Basically, in absorption air conditioning, he said "you need heat to get it started, then you have to be able to take the same heat away." In industry, he said, there is plenty of use for the heat in other equipment such as hot water processing.

General is in the business of making aluminum extrusions. The energy crunch put the company in the solar energy business.

A growing firm, General was faced with problems a few years ago, when East Ohio Gas Co. was unable to meet its expanding needs for natural gas. Propane gas used to supplement the natural gas was costly.

Company researchers developed the system of louvered aluminum panels. General has 100 panels in its system. They can be moved to different positions to compensate for changes in the angle of the sun through the year.

The system, which cost more than $350,000, was developed with the help of a $31,000 grant from the federal Energy, Research and Development Administration. General will report findings for the government bureau for dissemination to other industries.

LEGAL NOTICE

On November 9, 1977, in accordance with Chapter 1515.01-14 Revised Code of Ohio, the Ohio Soil and Water Conservation Committee will cause an election to be held at Teays Valley High School, 6:30 P.M., electing two (2) Supervisors to fill the expiring three (3) year terms of:

David H. Bolender
Paul D. Schein

Nominees to fill the expiring terms are:
Robert O. Black, Scioto Township
David H. Bolender, Washington Township
Shirley D. Bowser, Deercreek Township
Donald E. Davis, Wayne Township
Eugene Patrick, Pickaway Township

Nominations will be accepted from the floor at the time of election or by petition submitted one week prior to election containing the signatures of 25 landowners. Only landowners and occupiers are eligible to vote. Polls will also be open at the District office from 8:00 A.M. to 4:30 P.M. on the election date.

Skateboards Still High Risk

WASHINGTON (AP) — More people will be injured riding skateboards this year than playing scholastic, collegiate and backyard football, a new federal study discloses.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission estimates 375,000 people will be injured in skateboard accidents in 1977, compared to some 370,000 in all the non-professional football games in the country.

An unreleased report based on the study predicts that the number of skateboard injuries will be more than double last year's 188,000.

A commission official said no other product under its jurisdiction has shown such a dramatic growth in the number of injuries associated with it.

William Kitzes, the agency's program manager for sports and recreation, said only bicycles will account for more injuries this year. There are about 80 million bicycle riders, compared to 20 million skateboarders.

Kitzes said in a telephone interview Tuesday night that more than 25 per cent of all skateboard accidents occur the first day of use.

He said the skateboard report, which won't be finished until next month, shows that only 2 per cent of the injuries result from defects in the skateboards.

Most injuries come from skaters' inexperience or problems such as potholes.

About 40 per cent of those hurt go to hospital emergency rooms, he said. Of those treated, 30 per cent break an arm or leg and 24 per cent have cuts and bruises, while strains and sprains account for 18 per cent.

The commission previously reported there were 13 skateboard deaths between 1973 and last April.

The number of skateboards has grown from about 14 million in 1975 to 20 million in 1976, the commission said.

Skateboards have been around in some form since the 1950s, Kitzes said. But the early models allowed only a straight ride — not the turning, weaving and speeds of up to 90 miles an hour that riders can now experience.

The safety commission's options range from banning the product to safety campaigns. Kitzes said a ban is unlikely.

"The trend is toward safer skateboarding," he said. "That's what we're interested in."

Kitzes suggests that riders wear safety equipment, such as helmets and pads.

Records of the National Fire Protection Association show the number of fires set by arsonists and others has more than doubled in the last four years from 65,300 to 114,400. The cost of these fires has increased from $206 million to $563 million.

No Fault Insurance Not Without Faults

EDITOR'S NOTE: Congress is considering a bill to require every state to implement no-fault auto insurance meeting minimum federal standards. Sixteen states already have some sort of no-fault program. But no-fault is NOT without faults. Here, in the first of a two-part series on auto insurance, is a look at how it's working.

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
No-fault auto insurance, once promoted as a means of cutting costs for consumers, has failed to stem the tide of soaring premiums, but authorities say it has succeeded in its main goal of getting benefits into the hands of accident victims more quickly.

"We consider it a smashing success," said William Sheppard, Pennsylvania insurance commissioner, when asked about his state's no-fault program which took effect July 19, 1975.

"It has accomplished everything we said it would accomplish," said Jack Davies, a Minnesota state senator who sponsored a no-fault plan that began Jan. 1, 1975.

"No-fault is working well," said Kentucky Insurance Commissioner Harold McGuffey. "It's doing the job it's supposed to do — paying more people more money and arranging quick settlements. We have had practically no complaints."

At the same time, however, the drive for no-fault at the state level has stalled. Several states which passed no-fault laws early in the 1970s have been forced to make major changes.

President Carter has endorsed the concept of a federal no-fault bill, but the measures have not gotten beyond the hearing stage.

Premiums, meanwhile, are going up. And up. They increased almost 50 per cent from August 1975 to August 1977.

If no-fault is working so well, why haven't more states passed no-fault laws? What went wrong with the existing ones? Why the delay in passing a federal law? And why are prices rising?

The concept behind no-fault is simple: each party in an accident is compensated, for medical expenses at least, by his own insurance company. An individual's right to sue for further damages is limited. Expensive court cases and lengthy delays are eliminated.

Massachusetts became the first state in the nation to enact a no-fault law. The plan took effect Jan. 1, 1971. Since then, 15 other states have passed no-fault laws. They are: Colorado, Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Kansas, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Pennsylvania and Utah. The most recent law — North Dakota's — took effect on Jan. 1, 1976.

(Eight other states passed laws that were described as no-fault, but they place no limitation on the right of an accident victim to sue and cannot really be counted as part of the no-fault system.)

One reason for the problems with no-fault is a lack of understanding about what it can and cannot do.

No-fault supporters themselves may be partly to blame for the confusion. Ron Arnold of State Farm Insurance Cos., the nation's biggest auto insurer, said that politicians, eager to get support for the concept, appealed to people's pocketbooks. They promised — mistakenly — that no-fault would lower premiums and, in some cases, ordered rate decreases when no-fault went into effect.

Some state officials concede privately that the money-saving claims were a come-on and not realistic. They say now that the advantages of no-fault are not monetary.

There are several reasons for the lack of cost saving. No-fault generally applies only to bodily injury. Property damage stays under the old system — the insurance company of the motorist at fault has to pay. And property damage, according to State Farm, accounts for 60 cents of every dollar you pay in premiums on a nationwide basis.

James Hunt, director of the State Rating Bureau in Massachusetts, said bodily injury rates dropped 45 per cent from 1970 to 1976. Without no-fault, he said, they would have increased 63 per cent.

"The real proof of our success with no-fault is the steady reduction in bodily injury insurance rates," said Gov. Michael S. Dukakis, who, as a legislator, was a major sponsor of the state's no-fault law. "Unfortunately, the rate reductions for bodily injury have been counter-balanced by rates for other coverages which have gone up about as fast as bodily injury rates have come down."

Other officials said the rate increases would have been even worse without no-fault. Dr. James C. Nicholas, staff director of an ad hoc Automobile Insurance Commission in Florida, said that the cost of commercial vehicle insurance — which remained under the conventional system — has risen 130 per cent since 1971. Auto insurance, under no-fault, has risen 100 per cent in the same period.

State Farm said a survey showed that the average increase in automobile insurance rates in the 16 no-fault states from Dec. 31, 1970 through the end of last year was 24.6 percent, compared to a nationwide average boost of 27.7 percent.

Authorities also say that while no-fault has eliminated some of the legal costs surrounding accidents, the savings has been offset by the fact that more people are getting benefits since they are automatically paid by their own companies.

A Department of Transportation study showed that in Connecticut, an estimated 25 per cent more accident victims recover economic losses under no-fault than under the traditional system.

"With this no-fault system, people no longer have to worry about begging themselves to pay for their injuries," said Milton Friedman, counsel to the New York State Life Insurance Department. "And people in single-car accidents - who never got anything under the old law — are also being compensated."

Gene Glascock, supervising analyst for the Colorado Insurance Division, said no-fault "has reallocated funds, putting the funds in the hands of the injured rather than in the hands of the attorneys handling court cases. It hasn't really altered the cost to the insuring company."

One problem with existing no-fault programs, say officials, is that it is still too easy to sue. The laws generally allow a person to go to court after medical expenses reach a certain threshold. In nine states, the threshold is $750 or less. In New Jersey, it is only $200.

"I would guess that with continued inflation we would have to look at ... the threshold," said a spokesman for the Insurance Department in North Dakota, where a victim with medical expenses exceeding $1,000 is allowed to sue. "With the increased cost of medical services ... the $1,000 figure might not be realistic any more," he added.

State Insurance Commissioner Dick Rottman of Nevada, which has a $750 threshold, said: "It doesn't seem to be much of a problem for a person to sue, even if injured only slightly."

To correct the problem, authorities are considering raising the dollar threshold or eliminating it completely as New York and Florida have done recently and replacing it with a requirement that generally prohibits suits unless the accident results in death or serious injury.

(Michigan is the only other state without a dollar threshold; it is one of only three states — New Jersey and Pennsylvania are the others — which puts no ceiling on the amount of medical expenses that can be collected. Legislation under consideration in Pennsylvania would limit basic medical coverage to $100,000, with companies required to offer a maximum of $250,000 to customers who wanted the extra protection. The proposed federal legislation would allow states to put a limit of $250,000 on benefits for medical expenses and would permit individual suits only in case of death or serious injury.)

Fault or no-fault, there may be some relief from rising costs. The frequency of claims — a key factor in determining rates — has declined, although no one is sure why.

Auto insurance companies, many of which lost money during several periods in 1976, have reported enormous profits. They have not filed for rate reductions, but say the increased earnings may help offset future increases.

"We don't anticipate nearly the rapid rise in rates" of the past two or three years, said a spokesman for State Farm. He said State Farm increases on a nationwide average have been ranging from 12 to 15 per cent in recent years; this year, he said, the average increase will be 6 to 7 per cent.

The Consumer Price Index shows that auto insurance prices went up 12.5 per cent from August 1976 to August 1977. That compares with an increase of 31.2 per cent in the preceding year.

Derby News

MRS. GEORGIA SWEET, 869-2462

Reverend Linda Stafford spoke of the story of the prodigal son at services on Sunday. Speaking on behalf of the Derby United Methodist Church she would like to extend a special thank you to those who gave to the U.N.I.C.E.F. drive last Sunday. In three hours, in the Derby Clark's Lake area the children collected $92.26 to help underprivileged children throughout the world. We're grateful to the children, their parents and to all who gave or helped.

The big Halloween party will be held at the church from 6:30 — 9 p.m. on Saturday. To give donations for this event or for information, call Rev. Linda Stafford, Linda Ridgway, Geneva Graham or Eddie Weimer. Donations of cookies, Wrapples, Kool-aid or money will be welcome.

The Derby Church will soon be providing tapes of services to shut-ins who cannot attend, so they may enjoy and benefit from them. Any help along these lines is welcome. If you know of someone who is ill or a shut-in and has not yet been included on the prayer list, please call 869-2462 or 869-4897. At this time, Martha Vincent's condition has worsened and we ask that you remember her in special prayers. Others on the prayer list are Robert Rackham and family, Harry Vincent and family, Linda Miller, Dorothy Weimer, Herman Rowland, Milton Taylor, Bill Erb, Lillian Nance, Ellie Cox.

A United Methodist Rally will present "The Long March" on October 30 with drama and music. It will be at King Horn, Center, Ohio Northern University, Ada, Ohio from 4-5:30 p.m.

The Derby Circle is selling paring knives and steak knives. They may be purchased from any member.

Derby Sisters Rebekah Lodge No. 908 had inspection on October 19; district representative for district 32, JoAnn Markin was inspecting officer. She is a member of Sunflower Lodge No. 599. Derby Sisters Rebekah Lodge No. 908 are planning a weiner roast at the home of Theresa Smith on October 29 at 7:30 p.m. There will be a Rebekah card party at the Dublin I.O.O.F. Lodge Hall, Dublin, Ohio on November 12 at 8 p.m. The public is invited. Members are reminded to be working on craft items for the Darby Elementary School Christmas Bazaar on December 3 to be held from 2-7 p.m.

For donations or information about the bazaar, call Terry Schaalnat, this year's Ways and Means committee chairman at 869-2478. Santa will be there, hot homemade chili will be served, and there will be items so the children may shop for gifts.

The Tri-county Modulators C.B. Club members have tickets for sale for the drawing to be held December 13, and may be purchased from any member. The proceeds, as always, will go to the Children's hospital Burn Center.

Westfall's High School Marching Band was among those participating in the Pumpkin Show last week. Westfall High School Junior class elected officers for the '77-'78 school term. They are — George Kern, president; Robyn Bigam, vice-president; Sandy Drummond, secretary; and Susie Welsh, treasurer.

Tammi McGraw suffered a broken arm when she fell at the Darby School skating party at the Grove City Roller Rink last week.

Cheers to Eric Rickabaugh for his super Guide insert in the Columbus Dispatch last Sunday. He is an O.S.U. senior and a 1973 Westfall graduate. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rickabaugh of near Derby.

Darby Elementary School will have its annual Halloween party for the students on October 28.

A reminder to Clark's Lake Derby area senior citizens 55 years and older; the newly organized group meets next on Wednesday this week from 10-3 p.m. at Clark's Lake community building . . . bring a covered dish and enjoy the fun, food, recreation, and refreshments.

The Derby Garden Club met on October 10 at the church here when Martha Buller gave a demonstration on planting bulbs for spring blooming and discussed the different varieties along with an educational exhibit. President Carolyn Ohnewehr announced the Regional 9 meeting at St. Peter's Lutheran Church in Lancaster. The program, "Holiday Art" will be conducted by Mrs. James Pond, first vice-president of OAGC. The Garden Club's next meeting will be held November 14 at the Derby church, featuring a wreath workshop.

Gost Tales of Derby
Halloween; defined in Merriam Webster's dictionary as, simply, the evening of October 31 observed especially by children in merriment and masquerade."

Seems there was always a Halloween, but actually it is associated through its name with all Hallow's Eve, the popular fifth century observance derived from the Druids. These were members of a learned and priestly class who expounded the law.

In the days of Julius Ceasar they originated in the Celtic British Isles and in Gaul, a province of north-central France. The day of Saman was celebrated in the capital city of Orleans, when the Lord of Death called forth all the souls of the wicked who had died the past year.

The theme of harvest which runs through modern Halloween festivals comes from both the old Roman and Druid celebrations in honor of Pomona, the goddess of fruit, a custom brought to Britain during the Roman occupation. Yet today, the Eistedfod national festival is held each year at which the performers wear the robes of the Druid religious order of ancient Gaul and Britain, and tell in song and story the legend of the Welsh nation.

Once again, Halloween is near and it is time for spooks and hobgoblins to visit our town. The night seems a bit darker, shadows a bit longer, and stories of ghosts more scary than usual. Halloween with Beggar's night for the small fry and their cries of "Trick or Treat" and scores of scary figures scurrying from door to door begging for a handout. Cookies, candy, chewing gum, and I recall one lady who always had a big basket of apples by the door, still another who served homemade doughnuts and a paper cup of cider to each caller. There were parties then as now, but with taffy pulls, square dances, popping corn, making fudge, and bobbing for apples.

Long ago there was another side to it. There was the ever-popular "tick-tack", an empty wooden thread spool with notches cut in the edges and a long string attached and wrapped around the spool. When placed against a window pane one pulled the string and the resulting racket was enough to scare anyone inside out of his chair, and then, "Dang Halloweeners!" The children limited their pranks to "soaping" windows, still with us, ringing doorbells, then running away to watch from a distance while the owner called in vain to a non-existent visitor.

One never knew just what to expect and many a farmer woke up early next day to see a farm wagon silhouetted against the morning sky, a common enough sight, but on top of his barn? Another might find his outhouse overturned and one man was unfortunate enough to be inside at the time.

Much discussion took place trying to figure out how a cow got into a pasture found tied to the town pump, and one farmer even found his small John Deere on top of the barn.

No one was ever able to determine how this was accomplished, but were certain it involved more than one mischief maker. Then there was the problem of how to get it down again. It was a time which brought out either the genius or the very devil in some. There were varied and clever stunts and most were carried out with no other thought in mind but sheer delight in the reactions of the victims. Most tricks were playful and mischievous, but sometimes they provided a way to settle an imagined grudge. These were often carried to great length with many unusual and sometimes spectacular feats, which brought violent retaliation, and lived there a man with temper so hot that he grabbed old Betsy, loaded her with rock salt or buckshot, aimed and fired on the fleeing boys. He became exceedingly unpopular thereabouts for these far out tricks were tolerated, however grudgingly, and many would have been disappointed had the boys failed to perform on Halloween.

Once there was a man who delighted in lying in wait in darkness to catch them. He caught one boy soaping his windows and was very angry. The next year was devoted to a plot to get even and when he set foot out his back door into the darkness to spy he slid all the way out into his yard on a handful of marbles into a puddle of glue. Other favorite tricks were to throw handful of shelled corn on porches, stick things in the old type doorbells so they rang till the batteries ran down. Of course one had always to watch out for a bucket of cold water from an upstairs window with pranks such as these.

Fortunately most of these are not practical today because most everyone has a party or dance to attend. Farm machinery is much too heavy and complicated to move very far and there are few outhouses left today to overturn. They have gone the way of most old fashioned good humored Halloween, into the past.

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

Now that Pumpkin Show is over, the public library's younger patrons are gearing up for Halloween and all that the holiday entails. While out trick-or-treating, don't neglect to treat yourself to one of our new books, some of which are listed below.

"Quiet or Noisy?" by Tobi Tobias introduces a variety of objects and situations (the moon, flowers, a rocket) and asks the reader to decide whether these are quiet or noisy. Simple illustrations in bold colors and a very basic test should appeal to preschoolers for whom the book is intended.

Also new in the picture book section is Jan Wahl's "Doctor Rabbit's Foundling." Doctor Rabbit adopts and raises Tiny, who grows from tadpole to toad under the loving care of the doctor and the entire animal neighborhood. Youngsters will find the animals' fuss over "baby" and their efforts to ride herd on a wriggly, quickly developing toad highly entertaining.

Primary students will discover some easy reading in another new rabbit tale, "Mother Rabbit's Son Tom" by Dick Gackenbach. Tom repeatedly asks his mother for hamburgers and pets and then plays jokes on her that make the whole family laugh.

"Mooch the Messy" is a real treat for new readers. Mooch the Rat lives in a hole under a hill in Boston where - for entertainment - he scratches and scrunches" through muddy tunnels and where he blissfully keeps an extremely untidy house. Only for love does the young rat clean up his hole to make his father's visit happier. A pleasantly amusing story.

Glenn Balch's "Buck, Wild" should interest older children who like horse stories or are concerned about conservation. Buck is a contemporary wild horse fighting for survival against the increasing intrusion of Man on the dwindling open range. A well written, moving story on an issue that has gained national attention in recent years.

Foy mystery and adventure try "The Faraway Island." Barbara Corcoran's latest novel concerns a young girl, Lynn, who spends a year with her grandmother on an island instead of going to Europe with her family. Lynn learns a lot about herself when she discovers that her grandmother needs help and Lynn attempts to give it.

Hurry in for these and other books in the Children's Room.

Judge Revokes Probation

Jerry Eggers, 21, Columbus, had his probation revoked and original penal sentences of four to 25 years and six months to five years, concurrently, were reimposed Wednesday by Pickaway County Common Pleas Judge William Ammer.

Eggers pleaded guilty to aggravated burglary and grand theft June 30, 1976. He was granted shock probation Sept. 22, 1976.

The court ruled he violated his probation by failing to maintain steady employment and failing to keep his probation officer informed of his current address.

Shock Probation was granted to James Austin Rumble, 27, Rickenbacker Air Force Base. He was found guilty on two counts of trafficking in drugs on June 9, 1977, and sentenced to the Mansfield Reformatory for a period of six months to five years on each count.

Judge Ammer suspended the remainder of the sentence and placed Rumble on probation for three years. Terms of the probation are that he is not to use or possess any type of drugs, that he is not to associate with minors and he is to seek counseling.

The court noted that the defendant had no prior record and has served honorably in the air force and that the 139 days incarceration may prove to be beneficial to his rehabilitation.

Donald E. Donaldson Sr., Ashville, pleaded innocent to non support. He was indicted Sept. 23 by the grand jury. A trial date is to be set later.

Ohioans can look forward to more mild weather, at least through tonight, as a weak cold front across the Great Lakes moves southward into the state.

The air mass will continue to be dry and only patchy cloudiness is expected with the front. Slightly cooler temperatures will follow tonight and Friday but remain mild with lows in the lower to mid 40s and highs Friday in the low to mid 60s.

Dense fog covered most of Ohio early this morning, causing some hazardous driving conditions. Fog formed during the night across the state and became very dense in many areas.

A high pressure area moved into Ohio overnight and cleared skies with light winds resulted in cooling temperatures to the dew point. Temperatures fell into the mid 40s in the north and mid 50s in the south. The lowest reported during the early morning was 45 shared by Toledo and the Akron-Canton Airport.

The extended forecast calls for fair weather through Monday, with cooler temperatures. Highs will drop into the mid 50s to low 60s Saturday, warming to the mid and upper 60s by Monday. Lows will be in the mid 40s Saturday and again Monday. Sunday's low is expected to drop to the 30s.

Derby News

MRS. GEORGIA SWEET, 869-2462

Reverend Linda Stafford spoke of the story of the prodigal son at services on Sunday. Speaking on behalf of the Derby United Methodist Church she would like to extend a special thank you to those who gave to the U.N.I.C.E.F. drive last Sunday. In three hours, in the Derby Clark's Lake area the children collected $92.26 to help underprivileged children throughout the world. We're grateful to the children, their parents and to all who gave or helped.

The big Halloween party will be held at the church from 6:30 — 9 p.m. on Saturday. To give donations for this event or for information, call Rev. Linda Stafford, Linda Ridgway, Geneva Graham or Eddie Weimer. Donations of cookies, Wrapples, Kool-aid or money will be welcome.

The Derby Church will soon be providing tapes of services to shut-ins who cannot attend, so they may enjoy and benefit from them. Any help along these lines is welcome. If you know of someone who is ill or a shut-in and has not yet been included on the prayer list, please call 869-2462 or 869-4897. At this time, Martha Vincent's condition has worsened and we ask that you remember her in special prayers. Others on the prayer list are Robert Rackham and family, Harry Vincent and family, Linda Miller, Dorothy Weimer, Herman Rowland, Milton Taylor, Bill Erb, Lillian Nance, Ellie Cox.

A United Methodist Rally will present "The Long March" on October 30 with drama and music. It will be at King Horn, Center, Ohio Northern University, Ada, Ohio from 4-5:30 p.m. The Derby Circle is selling paring knives and steak knives. They may be purchased from any member.

Derby Sisters Rebekah Lodge No. 908 had inspection on October 19; district representative for district 32, JoAnn Markin was inspecting officer. She is a member of Sunflower Lodge No. 599. Derby Sisters Rebekah Lodge No. 908 are planning a weiner roast at the home of Theresa Smith on October 29 at 7:30 p.m. There will be a Rebekah card party at the Dublin I.O.O.F. Lodge Hall, Dublin, Ohio on November 12 at 8 p.m. The public is invited. Members are reminded to be working on craft items for the Derby Elementary School Christmas Bazaar on December 3 to be held from 2-7 p.m.

For donations or information about the bazaar, call Terry Schaals, this year's Ways and Means committee chairman at 869-2478. Santa will be there, hot homemade chili will be served, and there will be items so the children may shop for gifts.

The Tri-county Modulators C.B. Club members have tickets for sale for the drawing to be held December 13, and may be purchased from any member. The proceeds, as always, will go to the Children's hospital Burn Center.

Westfall's High School Marching Band was among those participating in the Pumpkin Show last week. Westfall High School Junior class elected officers for the '77-'78 school term. They are — George Kern, president; Robyn Bigam, vice-president; Sandy Drummond, secretary; and Susie Welsh, treasurer.

Tammi McGraw suffered a broken arm when she fell at the Derby School skating party at the Grove City Roller Rink last week.

Cheers to Eric Rickabaugh for his super Guide insert in the Columbus Dispatch last Sunday. He is an O.S.U. senior and a 1973 Westfall graduate. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rickabaugh of near Derby.

Derby Elementary School will have its annual Halloween party for the students on October 28.

A reminder to Clark's Lake Derby area senior citizens 55 years and older; the newly organized group meets next on Wednesday this week from 10-3 p.m. at Clark's Lake community building... bring a covered dish and enjoy the fun, food, recreation, and refreshments.

The Derby Garden Club met on October 10 at the church here when Martha Buller gave a demonstration on planting bulbs for spring blooming and discussed the different varieties along with an educational exhibit. President Carolyn Ohnewehr announced the Regional 9 meeting at St. Peter's Lutheran Church in Lancaster. The program, "Holiday Art" will be conducted by Mrs. James Pond, first vice-president of OAGC. The Garden Club's next meeting will be held November 14 at the Derby church, featuring a wreath workshop.

Gost Tales of Derby
Halloween; defined in Merriam Webster's dictionary as, simply, the evening of October 31 observed especially by children in merriment and masquerade.

Seems there was always a Halloween, but actually it is associated through its name with all Hallow's Eve, the popular fifth century observance derived from the Druids. These were members of a learned and priestly class who expounded the law.

In the days of Julius Caesar they originated in the Celtic British Isles and in Gaul, a province of north-central France. The day of Saman was celebrated in the capital city of Orleans, when the Lord of Death called forth all the souls of the wicked who had died the past year.

The theme of harvest which runs through modern Halloween festivals comes from both the old Roman and Druid celebrations in honor of Pomona, the goddess of fruit, a custom brought to Britain during the Roman occupation. Yet today, the Eistedfod national festival is held each year at which the performers wear the robes of the Druid religious order of ancient Gaul and Britain, and tell in song and story the legend of the Welsh nation.

Once again, Halloween is near and it is time for spooks and hobgoblins to visit our town. The night seems a bit darker, shadows a bit longer, and stories of ghosts more scary than usual. Halloween with Beggar's night for the small fry and their cries of "Trick or Treat" and scores of scary figures scurrying from door to door begging for a handout. Cookies, candy, chewing gum, and I recall one lady who always had a big basket of apples by the door, still another who served homemade doughnuts and a paper cup of cider to each caller. There were parties then as now, but with taffy pulls, square dances, popping corn, making fudge, and bobbing for apples.

Long ago there was another side to it. There was the ever-popular "tick-tack", an empty wooden thread spool with notches cut in the edges and a long string attached and wrapped around the spool. When placed against a window pane one pulled the string and the resulting racket was enough to scare anyone inside out of his chair, and then, "Dang Halloweeners!" The children limited their pranks to "soaping" windows, still with us, ringing doorbells, then running away to watch from a distance while the owner called in vain to a non-existent visitor.

One never knew just what to expect and many a farmer woke up early next day to see a farm wagon silhouetted against the morning sky, a common enough sight, but on top of his barn? Another might find his outhouse overturned and one man was unfortunate enough to be inside at the time.

Much discussion took place trying to figure out how a cow got into a pasture found tied to the town pump, and one farmer even found his small John Deere on top of the barn.

No one was ever able to determine how this was accomplished, but were certain it involved more than one mischief maker. Then there was the problem of how to get it down again. It was a time which brought out either the genius or the very devil in some. There were varied and clever stunts and most were carried out with no other thought in mind but sheer delight in the reactions of the victims. Most tricks were playful and mischievous, but sometimes they provided a way to settle an imagined grudge. These were often carried to great length with many unusual and sometimes spectacular feats, which brought violent retaliation, and lived there a man with temper so hot that he grabbed old Betsy, loaded her with rock salt or buckshot, aimed and fired on the fleeing boys. He became exceedingly unpopular thereabouts for these far out tricks were tolerated, however grudgingly, and many would have been disappointed had the boys failed to perform on Halloween.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS

Notice is hereby given in compliance with Section 5715.17 Revised Code, that the tax returns of Pickaway County, for the year 1977, have been revised and the valuations completed and are open for public inspection at the office of the County Auditor in the Court House, Circleville, Ohio.

Complaints against any valuation or assessment, except the valuations fixed and assessments made by the tax commissioner of Ohio, will be heard by the County Board of Revision at its office in the Court House, Circleville, Ohio, on or after December 20, 1977.

Complaints must be made in writing on blanks furnished by the County Auditor and filed in her office on or before the time limited for payment of taxes for the first half year, or at any time during which taxes are received by the County Treasurer without penalty for the first half year.

MARGARET REMY
Auditor of Pickaway County
October 19, 20, 21, 22, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 1977

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

Sealed proposals will be received by the Safety Director of the City of Circleville, Ohio at City Hall, 133 South Court Street, Circleville, Ohio 43113 until 12:00 noon, E.S.T., October 28, 1977 for the renovation of roof and eaves and for the installation of a new roof covering for Firehouse No. 1, Franklin Street, Circleville, Ohio in accordance with drawing and specifications prepared by Weatherby-Goodman, Architects, Planners, Consultants, Inc., 4480 Refugee Road, Columbus, Ohio 43227.

Specifications and contract documents may be obtained at the office of Weatherby-Goodman, Architects or examined at the office of the Architect, the office of the Safety Director, Columbus Builders Exchange, or Dodge Reports office, Columbus, Ohio.

Each proposal shall be a single lump sum for all work and on the forms provided and according to the instructions supplied. Each proposal shall also be accompanied by a bid bond given in favor of the City of Circleville, Ohio for an amount equal to at least five (5 per cent) per cent of the total amount of bid. The bid bond shall be either a bond issued by a surety company authorized to do business in the State of Ohio or a certified check on any solvent bank made payable to the order of the Safety Director of the City of Circleville, Ohio. If the bidder fails or refuses to enter into a contract within ten (10) days after notice of acceptance of his proposal, the bidder shall forfeit to the City of Circleville his bid bond. The bid bonds of unsuccessful bidders shall be canceled and returned. The bid bond of the successful bidder shall be retained pending the proper delivery of the completed contract. The Safety Director reserves the right to reject any and all bids, waive any informalities in the same, or to accept any bid or combination of bids based on lowest and best bid or bids.

Jets Have New 'Golden Boy'

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Sports Writer

It had been years since there was so much frenzied activity around Weeb Ewbank Hall, training quarters of the New York Jets.

"Richard Todd, I'd like to see Richard Todd," said the man with the portfolio, a visiting journalist not one of the regular Jets corps.

The receptionist put through a telephone call and, moments later, a harried gentleman with an armful of papers burst through the swinging doors.

"It's not going to be easy," said Frank Ramos, director of public relations for the National Football League club. "Let's see." He examined a chart. "He is in a quarterback meeting until 12, then he's on the phone with New England writers."

"After that, NBC wants to do a radio spot with him and Phyllis George of CBS is coming over to do something for the pregame show Sunday — may take an hour. He's got to dress and be out for practice at 2."

"We'll try to squeeze in a few minutes somewhere."

The birth of a new football super star — crowning of the Jets' "Golden Boy," successor to Broadway Joe Namath. Richard Todd had arrived.

"I wish people would quit trying to fit me into Joe Namath's mold," Todd said, once he had been able to plop down on the stool in front of the locker he inherited when the game's most celebrated quarterback moved to Los Angeles.

"I admire Joe, we are the best of friends. I knew him two years before I came to the Jets. We worked out together on the campus at Tuscaloosa."

"I can understand the correlation."

3-Man Crews Eyed To Officiate In NBA

NEW YORK (AP) — Norm Drucker, the National Basketball Association's new supervisor of officials, says he favors using three-man crews to referee NBA games.

"The way the game of professional basketball has changed, it really behooves the league to take a hard look at it this year," Drucker said of the switch from two referees a game to three, something a few college conferences will be experimenting with this season but which has never been tried by the NBA.

"The game has speeded itself up, but the referees haven't kept pace. Football went from two or three officials to six. Baseball started with two, then went to three, now has four and in the World Series has six. Basketball is getting to that point."

"I like three-man crews from a technical standpoint," Drucker added in an interview at NBA headquarters here. "It's easier to cover the complete floor. There would be other problems — personalities and things of that nature — but I think over-all, for getting the best job done, three referees would help."

Drucker, who joined the NBA as a referee a quarter-century ago and last month succeeded the retired John Nucatola as supervisor of officials, says he also favors some sort of no foul-out rule.

"The no foul-out rule in the ABA was my idea," said Drucker, who refereed for seven years in the American Basketball Association — also doubled as supervisor of officials part of that time — before rejoining the NBA last year.

Under the present NBA rule, a player must leave the game after committing his sixth personal foul. In the ABA, if a player committed six fouls he was permitted to remain in the game, but after each subsequent foul he committed, the other team received possession of the ball as well as its free throws.

"I think that penalty is too severe," said Drucker. "That could mean a five or six-point play, and not too many coaches are going to keep a player in under those conditions."

"There's a school that thinks if a player is that poor and fouls that much, he should be penalized. I really don't think so. I think whether he plays or not should be a coach's decision. It's like saying if a shortstop makes four errors, he has to leave the game. If he's making four errors, he's hurting

We are both out of Alabama. We have the same business manager (Jimmy Walsh). We came up with the same pro team. We are both quarterbacks and both bachelors.

"But he is Joe Namath and I am Richard Todd — two different people. That's the way I want it to be."

Being Richard Todd is not such a bad circumstance at the moment. In leading the Jets to early season victories over New England and Buffalo and in almost upsetting the Super Bowl champion Oakland Raiders with a 396-yard passing performance last Sunday, he suddenly has become one of the hottest commodities in the sport.

A superb athlete, 6-feet-2 and 215 pounds, handsome and talented, he looms as the future matinee idol of the Sunday tube.

New York is a city that must have its heroes. It turns its sports stars into giants and saturates them with rich tradition — Babe Ruth, Joe DiMaggio, Mickey Mantle, Namath and, more recently, Reggie Jackson.

Todd, poised and charismatic, appears perfect for the role. Yet he is only beginning.

The Namath image will continue to haunt him for a while, until he can shake it and cement his own identity. Newspapers already have begun to stalk his social pursuits, snap him with beauty queens. Already they are busy building him up as a sex symbol.

Phyllis George, a former Miss America, has interviewed the great and near great in her role as sports-caster. On her personal scale of 1 to 10, she rates Todd close to 10.

"He is so cute and boyish, almost timid," she said. "He is a real charmer."

Little Tigers End Season

Circleville's seventh and eighth grade girl volleyball team traveled to Bexley Wednesday and dropped a hard-fought battle to the Lions, 15-7, 11-15, 15-6, in the season finale for the Tigers who ended the season with a 5-3 record.

Scoring for the Tigers were: Karen Lewis, 8; Elisa Frosini, 5; Krista Welsh, 5; Nanette Martin, 5; Tina Haist, 5; Beth Obermeyer, 2; Robin Rowland, 2.

Circleville was 44 of 66 on serves for 67 percent and 69 of 110 for 63 percent on defensive bumps.

The Red and Black reserves evened things up a win over the Lions, 7-15, 15-10, 15-7. Circleville ended the season with a 4-1 mark.

Putting points on the board for Circleville were: Debbie Morehart, 10; Kim Hoselton, 6; Jenny Armstrong, 6; Kelly McKinney, 4; Nanette Martin, 4; Elisa Frosini, 6; Robin Rowland, 1.

The Tigers converted 41 of 56 serves for 73 percent and were 55 of 85 for 65 percent on defensive bumps.

Tigers And Vikings Clash In SCOL

Things are all set and the season really comes to a head Friday night when the Tigers of Circleville move into Teays Valley country in a South Central Ohio League clash that promises more fireworks than a black market operator on the 4th of July.

In addition to the battle of country rivals the fans will also be provided with plenty of beauty and pomp and ceremony at halftime when Teays Valley holds its homecoming celebration.

The gridders from Roundtown will go into the fray with a league mark of 3-1, 3-4 overall, while the Blue and Gold are sporting a league mark of 2-2, 3-4 overall.

Outside of a few bumps and bruises, the Tigers are healthy and should be at full strength Friday night.

Up until last weeks contest with one of the state AAA powers, the Tigers have shown tough defense with good hard hitting football.

They have been hard at work this week and are the type team that will bounce back. Team spirit was very high at practice this week and Red and Black coaches seem to be pleased with what they have seen.

After a slow start this season, the offense has started to get into high gear and Tiger coaches feel it could be purring once again when the squad gets its hands on the ball Friday night.

The Tigers are ready and they know that Teays Valley is also ready — So it will be "snap, crackle and pop" Friday night when the whistle blows.

Circleville Coach Larry Cook had nothing but praise for the fine football team of Miami Trace and said "We were defeated by a super football team with outstanding people last week."

In regard to the upcoming game at Teays Valley, Cook commented, "We are looking forward to a very tough, close, exciting football game with the Vikings. We always have a great deal of respect for a Teays Valley Football team and we're sure they feel the same about Circleville which will make a very interesting Friday night."

The Teays Valley camp has a high degree of excitement and expectancy as the Friday contest looms ahead. "Our Monday defensive practice was one of the best of this year," stated Viking coach Bill Wood. When the Herald talked with Wood on Tuesday, he stated that the degree of intensity and emotion his charges were displaying then would normally roll around later in the week as the game got closer.

From Wood's viewpoint Friday's game will be a good struggle between two very evenly matched teams. They have identical records, and in preseason both teams were tagged around the loop as probable "weak sisters". Wood quite correctly observed that the winner of the annual "Pickaway County spectacular" may well be the second place finisher in the SCOL. "Considering our forecasts in preseason, both teams have proven their worth this year," said Wood.

Even though he is coaching in his first TV-CHS match-up, Wood knows that if both teams carried 0-7 slates into the game you could still pitch the book out the window. "We feel that Circleville runs a first class program," said Wood, "they always conduct themselves well, and we respect that as well as their playing ability."

The Vikings dropped a heartbreaker in Franklin County Stadium last week, as the Rangers from Hamilton Twp. scored in the waning minutes of the game to take a 13-8 decision from the Norsemen. The players liked the "rug" in the stadium, but Wood thinks they will like to get back to the good old grass.

The Vikings will be full go for "the game", which Wood said may be decided on one of three things—momentum, mistakes, or the kicking game. The gates in Viking Stadium will open at 6:15 p.m. for the capacity-plus crowd that is expected.

Finally, consider this: it is Teays Valley's Homecoming. But as was stated earlier, expect the unexpected in Ashville Friday night. After all, Teays Valley and Circleville are playing in their first ever encounter as SCOL opponents.

Tickets On Sale, Meet Is Changed

Tickets for the Teays Valley-Circleville game will be on sale in the Teays Valley High School office today and Friday during regular school hours.

The gates in Viking Stadium will open at 6:15 p.m. Friday evening.

Teays Valley head football coach Bill Wood has announced that the Viking Quarterback Club will meet this Tuesday at 7 p.m. instead of Monday.

Pensacola Open Ends Pro Golf Season

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Considerably more than a $25,000 first prize is at stake this week in the Pensacola Open Golf Tournament.

For a handful of players, their performance in the tournament that began Thursday will have a major effect on the conduct of their lives for the entire 1978 season.

As the last official event of the year, the Pensacola Open is the touring pros' last shot at a coveted exemption from qualifying for next year's tour. If they make the exemption, they can play in any regular tour event they want. If they miss, then they face the rigors and traumas of the Monday morning qualifying rounds, what they call "the Suicide Open," just to gain a spot in the tournament field.

"The first goal any player sets for himself is making the top 60 and getting that exemption," said John Mahaffey. "It's almost impossible to overemphasize the importance of having an exemption. It may be the most important thing on the tour; probably is the most important."

Mahaffey, slump-ridden and plagued by injuries most of the season, is in one of the two major races for an exemption. He's gunning for a position in the career top 50 money-winners. The other race involves the top 60 money-winners from the 1977 season. Both lists close with this tournament.

The current top 60 is unusually stable this season, with only a couple of players in the scramble for the No. 60 spot now held by Roger Maltbie with $51,462. Often, as many as 15 or 20 players come to the last tournament with a legitimate shot at the man in the No. 60 position.

Ed Sneed, 61st on the list, is recovering from surgery and isn't playing. Kermit Zarley, with $50,391, and Mike Hill, with $50,323, are next. As a tournament winner, Hill is exempt for most of 1978, but the veteran Zarley needs to win $1,072 more than Maltbie to go into the top 60 and get the exemption.

Mahaffey, who lost a playoff for the 1975 U.S. Open and led the 1976 U.S. Open and led the 1976 American National championship for three rounds, has won only $7,430 this season.

He ranks 51st on the all-time money-winning list, however, and needs to climb one position to gain an exemption. Rod Funseth currently is No. 50 with $510,808. Mahaffey has $508,426. He needs to beat Funseth's winnings by $2,383 this week.

Jerry Pate, a winner last week in the Southern Open, was the favorite for the title in the 72-hole test over the 6,549-yard, par-71 Pensacola Country Club course.

His chief opponents included Johnny Miller, defending champion Mark Hayes, former champion Lee Eider, PGA king Lanny Wadkins, Arnold Palmer, Miller Barber and Ray Floyd, a two-time winner this season.

Tucker Memorial Award To Be Presented

A special presentation will be made during halftime of the Teays Valley-Circleville football game Friday night.

A memorial award will be presented to the family of Bob Tucker. Tucker was considered by many to be one of the finest athletes to attend Teays Valley in the history of the school. He met his untimely death in an auto accident.

According to school officials, beginning this year at the post-season banquet, a Teays Valley football player will be presented a Bob Tucker Memorial Award each year.

Jets Have New 'Golden Boy'

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Sports Writer

It had been years since there was so much frenzied activity around Weeb Ewbank Hall, training quarters of the New York Jets.

"Richard Todd, I'd like to see Richard Todd," said the man with the portfolio, a visiting journalist not one of the regular Jets corps.

The receptionist put through a telephone call and, moments later, a harried gentleman with an armful of papers burst through the swinging doors.

"It's not going to be easy," said Frank Ramos, director of public relations for the National Football League club. "Let's see." He examined a chart. "He is in a quarterback meeting until 12, then he's on the phone with New England writers."

"After that, NBC wants to do a radio spot with him and Phyllis George of CBS is coming over to do something for the pregame show Sunday — may take an hour. He's got to dress and be out for practice at 2."

"We'll try to squeeze in a few minutes somewhere."

The birth of a new football super star — crowning of the Jets' "Golden Boy," successor to Broadway Joe Namath.

Richard Todd had arrived. "I wish people would quit trying to fit me into Joe Namath's mold," Todd said, once he had been able to plop down on the stool in front of the locker he inherited when the game's most celebrated quarterback moved to Los Angeles.

"I admire Joe, we are the best of friends. I knew him two years before I came to the Jets. We worked out together on the campus at Tuscaloosa. "I can understand the correlation.

3-Man Crews Eyed To Officiate In NBA

NEW YORK (AP) — Norm Drucker, the National Basketball Association's new supervisor of officials, says he favors using three-man crews to referee NBA games.

"The way the game of professional basketball has changed, it really behooves the league to take a hard look at it this year," Drucker said of the switch from two referees a game to three, something a few college conferences will be experimenting with this season but which has never been tried by the NBA.

"The game has speeded itself up, but the referees haven't kept pace. Football went from two or three officials to six. Baseball started with two, then went to three, now has four and in the World Series has six. Basketball is getting to that point."

"I like three-man crews from a technical standpoint," Drucker added in an interview at NBA headquarters here. "It's easier to cover the complete floor. There would be other problems — personalities and things of that nature — but I think over-all, for getting the best job done, three referees would help."

Drucker, who joined the NBA as a referee a quarter-century ago and last month succeeded the retired John Nucatola as supervisor of officials, says he also favors some sort of no foul-out rule.

"The no foul-out rule in the ABA was my idea," said Drucker, who refereed for seven years in the American Basketball Association — also doubled as supervisor of officials part of that time — before rejoining the NBA last year.

Under the present NBA rule, a player must leave the game after committing his sixth personal foul. In the ABA, if a player committed six fouls he was permitted to remain in the game, but after each subsequent foul he committed, the other team received possession of the ball as well as its free throws.

"I think that penalty is too severe," said Drucker. "That could mean a five or six-point play, and not too many coaches are going to keep a player in under those conditions."

"There's a school that thinks if a player is that poor and fouls that much, he should be penalized. I really don't think so. I think whether he plays or not should be a coach's decision. It's like saying if a shortstop makes four errors, he has to leave the game. If he's making four errors, he's hurting

We are both out of Alabama. We have the same business manager (Jimmy Walsh). We came up with the same pro team. We are both quarterbacks and both bachelors.

"But he is Joe Namath and I am Richard Todd — two different people. That's the way I want it to be."

Being Richard Todd is not such a bad circumstance at the moment. In leading the Jets to early season victories over New England and Buffalo and in almost upsetting the Super Bowl champion Oakland Raiders with a 396-yard passing performance last Sunday, he suddenly has become one of the hottest commodities in the sport.

A superb athlete, 6-foot-2 and 215 pounds, handsome and talented, he looms as the future matinee idol of the Sunday tube.

New York is a city that must have its heroes. It turns its sports stars into giants and saturates them with rich tradition — Babe Ruth, Joe DiMaggio, Mickey Mantle, Namath and, more recently, Reggie Jackson.

Todd, poised and charismatic, appears perfect for the role. Yet he is only beginning.

The Namath image will continue to haunt him for a while, until he can shake it and cement his own identity. Newspapers already have begun to stalk his social pursuits, snap him with beauty queens. Already they are busy building him up as a sex symbol.

Phyllis George, a former Miss America, has interviewed the great and near great in her role as sportscaster. On her personal scale of 1 to 10, she rates Todd close to 10.

"He is so cute and boyish, almost timid," she said. "He is a real charmer."

his team, and it's the manager's problem."

One thing Drucker does not favor is the ABA's three-point goal, where a player got three points for a shot made from beyond 25 feet.

"The ABA did certain things for show business," observed Drucker. "I don't think the NBA really needs it. It's a gimmick, that's all. Why should that be worth three points, and if some guy drives through and makes a layup with people hanging all over him and that's only worth two?"

Little Tigers End Season

Circleville's seventh and eighth grade girl volleyball team traveled to Bexley Wednesday and dropped a hard-fought battle to the Lions, 15-7, 11-15, 15-6, in the season finale for the Tigers who ended the season with a 5-3 record.

Scoring for the Tigers were: Karen Lewis, 8; Elisa Frosini, 5; Krista Welsh, 5; Nanette Martin, 5; Tina Haist, 5; Beth Obermeyer, 2; Robin Rowland, 2.

The Teays Valley camp has a high degree of excitement and expectancy as the Friday contest looms ahead. Tickets for the Teays Valley-Circleville game will be on sale in the Teays Valley High School office today and Friday during regular school hours.

The gates in Viking Stadium will open at 6:15 p.m. Friday evening.

Teays Valley head football coach Bill Wood has announced that the Viking Quarterback Club will meet this Tuesday at 7 p.m. instead of Monday.

Pensacola Open Ends Pro Golf Season

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Considerably more than a $25,000 first prize is at stake this week in the Pensacola Open Golf Tournament.

For a handful of players, their performance in the tournament that began Thursday will have a major effect on the conduct of their lives for the entire 1978 season.

As the last official event of the year, the Pensacola Open is the touring pros' last shot at a coveted exemption from qualifying for next year's tour. If they make the exemption, they can play in any regular tour event they want. If they miss, then they face the rigors and traumas of the Monday morning qualifying rounds, what they call "the Suicide Open," just to gain a spot in the tournament field.

"The first goal any player sets for himself is making the top 60 and getting that exemption," said John Mahaffey. "It's almost impossible to overemphasize the importance of having an exemption. It may be the most important thing on the tour; probably is the most important."

Mahaffey, slump-ridden and plagued by injuries most of the season, is in one of the two major races for an exemption. He's gunning for a position in the career top 50 money-winners. The other race involves the top 60 money-winners from the 1977 season. Both lists close with this tournament.

The current top 60 is unusually stable this season, with only a couple of players in the scramble for the No. 60 spot now held by Roger Maltbie with $51,462. Often, as many as 15 or 20 players come to the last tournament with a legitimate shot at the man in the No. 60 position.

Ed Sneed, 61st on the list, is recovering from surgery and isn't playing. Kermit Zarley, with $30,391, and Mike Hill, with $30,323, are next. As a tournament winner, Hill is exempt for most of 1978, but the veteran Zarley needs to win $1,072 more than Maltbie to go into the top 60 and get the exemption.

Mahaffey, who lost a playoff for the 1975 U.S. Open and led the 1976 U.S. Open and led the 1976 American National championship for three rounds, has won only $7,430 this season.

He ranks 51st on the all-time money-winning list, however, and needs to climb one position to gain an exemption. Rod Funseth currently is No. 50 with $510,808. Mahaffey has $508,426. He needs to beat Funseth's winnings by $2,383 this week.

Jerry Pate, a winner last week in the Southern Open, was the favorite for the title in the 72-hole test over the 6,549-yard, par-71 Pensacola Country Club course.

His chief opponents included Johnny Miller, defending champion Mark Hayes, former champion Lee Elder, PGA king Lanny Wadkins, Arnold Palmer, Miller Barber and Ray Floyd, a two-time winner this season.

Tucker Memorial Award To Be Presented

A special presentation will be made during halftime of the Teays Valley-Circleville football game Friday night.

A memorial award will be presented to the family of Bob Tucker. Tucker was considered by many to be one of the finest athletes to attend Teays Valley in the history of the school. He met his untimely death in an auto accident.

According to school officials, beginning this year at the post-season banquet, a Teays Valley football player will be presented a Bob Tucker Memorial Award each year.

Tiger Frosh Outspike Lancaster

The Circleville freshman girls volleyball team nipped Lancaster Stansberry Wednesday by identical 16-14 scores.

The local girls served 77 percent good serves and made 77 percent of their bumps.

The offense was led by Nadine Martin, Leslie Jones, Julia Yunker and Sally Rustin who were 100 percent on serves.

Defensive leaders were Susan Francis, Nadine Martin, Kim Wolfe and Leslie Jones.

Scorers were Denise Murray, nine; Kelly Smith, Nadine Martin, Leslie Jones and Lori Archer, five each; and Kim Wolfe, three.

Sally Rustin paced the 15-6 exhibition win with seven points.

Circleville will finish the season against Chillicothe Mount Logan in a 4:30 p.m. contest Monday.

Mid American Players Of Week Named

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Toledo quarterback Jeff Hepinstall and Miami defensive end Greg Sullivan are the Mid-American Conference football Players of the Week.

A panel of newsmen selected Hepinstall for the offensive honors after the senior from Hillsdale, Mich., ran for two fourth quarter touchdowns in Toledo's first victory of the season, 31-29 over Ohio University.

Sullivan, a 205-pound junior from Oxford, Ohio, won the defensive honors for 11 tackles, three for losses of 14 yards, forcing a fumble and deflecting a pass as Miami pounded Bowling Green 33-13.

Also considered offensively were George Jenkins of Ball State, Mike Svengros of Central Michigan, Steve Raklovits of Eastern Michigan, Mike Whalen of Kent State, Kaiser Holman of Miami, Allen Ross of Northern Illinois, Nigel Turpin of Ohio and Western Michigan's Jerome Persell.

Defensive candidates nominated were Ed Turner of Toledo, Buddy Mohler of Ohio, Steve Clausen of Northern Illinois, Mike Zele and Larry Caver of Kent State, Tom Williams of Eastern Michigan, Bryan Gross of Central Michigan and Jon Hoke of Ball State.

Moeller Leads In Computer Rankings

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland St. Joseph has taken over the Region 1 lead and joined Cincinnati Moeller, Lima Senior and Canton McKinley as the Class AAA pacesetters in this week's Ohio High School Athletic Association regional football ratings.

St. Joseph has 85.75 points after seven weeks of play, just ahead of Mentor Lake Catholic's 85.00. Parma Normandy, the Region 1 leader last week, was fourth this time with 78.95.

Moeller, the statewide poll leader, has the most points of any first-place team with 106.91 points in Region 4.

Canton McKinley, No. 2 ranked in Ohio, is right behind with 101.00 in Region 3. Lima Senior, first in Region 2, has 88.20 points.

The Class AA leaders remained the same as last week with Elyria Catholic, the defending playoff champion, first in Region 5, St. Marys in Region 6, Canton Central Catholic in Region 7 and Cincinnati Wyoming in Region 8.

The biggest change came in Class A this week with four new frontrunners, Ashtabula St. John in Region 9, Fremont St. Joseph in Region 10, Beallsville in Region 11 and West Jefferson, the 1976 playoff champion, in Region 12.

Fremont St. Joseph shared the Region 10 lead with Hamler Henry, last week's sole leader.

The OHSAA uses the ratings, compiled by a Columbus computer firm, to determine its field for the postseason semi-finals. Each regional leader after the last regular season game automatically qualifies for the playoffs.

Phoenix Only Unbeaten Team In National Basketball Assn.

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

How's this for balance — the National Basketball Association season is only eight days old, and there's just one undefeated team left.

What's more, every team except one has at least one victory.

The defending champion Portland Trail Blazers fell from the unbeaten list Wednesday night, dropping a 111-108 decision to the Nuggets at Denver.

That leaves Phoenix as the only club in the 22-team league with an unblemished record. The Suns were idle Wednesday and do not play again until Friday night, when they put their 3-0 mark on the line against the Jazz in New Orleans.

The New Jersey Nets, meanwhile, dropped to 0-4 by bowing to the Atlanta Hawks 113-110 in overtime.

In other NBA games Wednesday night, the Detroit Pistons defeated the Golden State Warriors 123-107, the New Orleans Jazz beat the New York Knicks 123-106 and the Seattle SuperSonics topped the Buffalo Braves 97-92.

Nuggets 111, Blazers 108
Denver took a 34-22 firstquarter lead by scoring 19 in a row but saw Portland chip away at the lead and finally go ahead in the fourth quarter. But Denver came on again, going ahead to stay on a jumper by Dan Issel with 1:57 left.

David Thompson led the Nuggets with 24 points while Bobby Gross had 22 for the Blazers.

Hawks 113, Nets 110, OT
The Nets blew a nine-point lead in the fourth quarter. Reserve guards Charlie Criss and Eddie Johnson led the way for the Hawks, Criss scoring six points in the final period and Johnson six in overtime.

The Hawks put the game away with nine points in a row in overtime, including four by Johnson.

Pistons 123, Warriors 107
Golden State trailed by only four at 107-103 with four minutes to play, but Detroit buried the Warriors with a closing 16-4 burst. Detroit's two big men paced the victory, Bob Lanier scoring 25 points and Marvin Barnes grabbing 19 rebounds, his NBA high.

Phil Smith scored 32 for Golden State.

Jazz 123, Knicks 106
Pete Maravich's hot shooting sent the Jazz in front early, and the Knicks were never able to assert themselves. Maravich scored 30 points and Gail Goodrich and Len Robinson had 25 each for New Orleans. Robinson also had 18 rebounds.

The game was halted twice when players passed career scoring milestones. Goodrich passed the 17,000-point mark, and New York's Earl Monroe surpassed 15,000.

Sonics 97, Braves 92
Fred Brown, who scored 37 points, put Seattle ahead 93-92 on a corner jumper with 56 seconds to play. He then hit a 30-footer with 24 seconds left and closed out the victory with two free throws seven seconds later.

Buffalo scored just 10 points in the first period.

Ohio State Leads Big Ten Statistics

CHICAGO (AP) — Ohio State, ranked No. 3 nationally, leads the Big Ten in four of eight statistical team categories.

The Buckeyes lead in rushing with an average of 324.3 yards a game, in total offense with 417.9 yards a game, in scoring with a 31.3 game average and in rushing defense, yielding 117.4 yards per game.

Michigan, dropped to sixth following its 16-0 loss to Minnesota, remains tops in defense. The Wolverines are first in total defense with a yield of 215.4 yard a game and in scoring, allowing 8.3 points a game.

Purdue, led by quarterback Mark Herrmann, is first in passing with 279.1 yards a game to 160.1 for second place Michigan State and Indiana is tops in passing defense on a yield of 74.0 yards a game.

Herrmann is the individual leader in passing and total offense. He has completed 133 passes for 1,858 yards and 14 touchdowns. He also has compiled 242.1 yards a game in total offense to 130.3 for Ed Smith of Michigan State who is in second place.

Darrick Burnett of Indiana, who has missed the last two games because of injuries, is the rushing leader with an average of 105.8 yards a game. Harlan Huckleby of Michigan is second at 102.3 and Ron Springs of Ohio State is third at 99.3.

Reggie Arnold of Purdue, who caught a record four touchdown passes last week, leads in passes caught with 34 followed by teammate Ray Smith with 32. Keith Calvin of Indiana is third with 26.

Joel Payton of Ohio State is the scoring leader with 62 points including 10 touchdowns and Paul Rogind of Minnesota and Hans Nielsen of Michigan State are tied for the lead in kick scoring with 44 points each.

9.4 yard average.

John Anderson of Michigan has a narrow lead in punting. Anderson is averaging 41.7 yards a kick to 41.1 yards for Dan Zarlingo of Indiana.

Mark Anderson of Michigan State is first in interceptions with six. Mike Guess of Ohio State has five and Dave Abrams of Indiana four.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Two teams whose battle Saturday will be a highlight of Ohio Athletic Conference football action won all this week's player honors.

Baldwin-Wallace halfback Paul Ernst and Marietta quarterback Tom Havranek share the offensive laurels, and the sole defensive award goes to tackle Paul Petrella of Baldwin-Wallace.

They square off Saturday in Marietta.

Ernst was picked for scoring two touchdowns and gaining 92 yards rushing in pacing Baldwin-Wallace to a 35-17 victory over Ohio Wesleyan last Saturday. He also caught four passes for 17 yards and completed a 25-yard scoring pass of his own.

Havranek led Marietta to a 20-6 victory over Mount Union while completing 10 of 18 passes for 160 yards, one for a touchdown, and gaining 25 yards on the ground.

Petrella's recognition came from completing eight tackles and assisting on six others last Saturday.

The Buckeyes lead in rushing with an average of 324.3 yards a game, in total offense with 417.9 yards a game, in scoring with a 31.3 game average and in rushing defense, yielding 117.4 yards per game.

Michigan, dropped to sixth following its 16-0 loss to Minnesota, remains tops in defense. The Wolverines are first in total defense with a yield of 215.4 yard a game and in scoring, allowing 8.3 points a game.

Purdue, led by quarterback Mark Herrmann, is first in passing with 279.1 yards a game to 160.1 for second place Michigan State and Indiana is tops in passing defense on a yield of 74.0 yards a game.

Herrmann is the individual leader in passing and total offense. He has completed 133 passes for 1,858 yards and 14 touchdowns. He also has compiled 242.1 yards a game in total offense to 130.3 for Ed Smith of Michigan State who is in second place.

Darrick Burnett of Indiana, who has missed the last two games because of injuries, is the rushing leader with an average of 105.8 yards a game. Harlan Huckleby of Michigan is second at 102.3 and Ron Springs of Ohio State is third at 99.3.

Reggie Arnold of Purdue, who caught a record four touchdown passes last week, leads in passes caught with 34 followed by teammate Ray Smith with 32. Keith Calvin of Indiana is third with 26.

Joel Payton of Ohio State is the scoring leader with 62 points including 10 touchdowns and Paul Rogind of Minnesota and Hans Nielsen of Michigan State are tied for the lead in kick scoring with 44 points each.

Bobby Weber of Minnesota is tops in kickoff returns with a 28.3 yard average and Todd Sheets of Northwestern leads in punt returns with a Mrs. Vern (Bertha) Jinks, one of the few older life long residents of Laurelville will celebrate her 85th birthday on November 2nd. She is at present living with her daughter in Hallsville so let's send a shower of cards to — Mrs. Bertha Jinks, Rt. 2, Kingston, Oh. 45644 — c-o Virginia Poling.

Mrs. Opal Allen, who returned home recently from Berger hospital where she underwent major surgery, would like to thank her many friends for their cards, flowers and prayers. A special thanks to Rev. Lehman who visited her many times during her hospital stay.

The Chuck Zawacki family would like to express their sincere appreciation to their many friends in the Laurelville community for their personal visits, calls, prayers, cards, gifts and food and care of Jess during Chuck's recent surgery in a Columbus hospital.

Remember the turkey supper to be served on Nov. 5, at the trinity U.M. Church in Laurelville. Serving will be from 5 — 7:30 p.m. Carry out dinners will be taken care of from 4 — 5 only. Advance tickets may be purchased from the ladies of the Women's Society.

A revival will be held in the Laurel Hills church from Oct. 30 thru Nov. 6 at 7:30 each evening. The Rev. Carl Hicks will be the speaker, and there will be special music each evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bowers II entertained the nursery class of the Trinity church at Sunday School on last Sunday morning in honor of their little daughter Claudia's third birthday. Mrs. Bowers, dressed in a clown outfit treated the children to various goodies and gave each a balloon on a stick to take home.

Sunday visitors of Mrs. Golda Paxton were Mr. and Mrs. Clark Durbin (Mabel Bushee) and Mrs. Mamie Bushee Strous of Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Mitchell of Marion, Oh., Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hutchins of Logan, Oh., Mr. and Mrs. Vic Pontious of Amanda were Sunday afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. H.C. Hartsaugh. Their Monday visitors were Mrs. Miriam Starkey and Kathleen Smith of Circleville.

The monthly meeting of the Laurelville Senior Citizens will be the first Tuesday night in the village building joining the fire house, carry in dinner at 6 p.m.

I am told that Clarence Maxson was helping at the Laurelville Grain and Mill last week, I hadn't mentioned his name for a few weeks. The mill is a busy place these days.

Come on readers, be sending me some news, you let me down this week. I say again, if you bring items to my home and can't find me, there are two pinch clothes pins on my screen door handle, just leave the note there and I will always find it.

Westerville Firm Gets Contract

WESTERVILLE, Ohio (AP) — A Westerville firm has been awarded a federal contract to provide a unique service to the handicapped.

LINC Services, Inc., will be acting as the nation's only liaison between the U.S. Office of Education's bureau of education for the handicapped and the commercial firms which publish special education materials for the handicapped.

The idea is show the business sector the latest in new, approved teaching materials for the handicapped, so they can be put on the market and into use promptly, according to LINC president Victor E. Fuchs.

"It's important that these special education materials are available to help handicapped learners as quickly as possible," said Fuchs.

New Superintendent Named For Apple Creek

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Dr. Dan Fazzini will take over Nov. 14 as superintendent of Apple Creek State Institute.

Appointment of the 32-year-old doctor in psychology was announced Wednesday by Dr. Timothy B. Moritz, director of the Ohio Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

Fazzini has served as director of residential services for the Waukegan (Ill.) Developmental Center since July 1974.

Tax Reform Will Fail

CINCINNATI (AP) — Any attempt to push an "encyclopedic" tax reform package will meet with failure, predicts the chairman of the board of General Electric.

"Our advice has been that if you come up with a reform package that's too comprehensive, the Congress is going to grow impatient and simply pass a tax cut without reform," said Reginald H. Jones during a press conference prior to a meeting of the company's share owners here.

"Our suggestion for a tax package is to bore in on two or three reforms." He called on the President to initiate a tax cut for individuals of about $15 billion and a $7 billion to $8 billion tax cut for corporations to help offset the impact of inflation on businesses.

During his talk to shareholders, Jones also called for shorter capital recovery periods, immediate write-offs on pollution control expenditures and broader applicability on the investment tax credit.

A tax cut about the middle of the year would "put the onus on Congress," Jones said, and would provide relief for an economy which is not "reaching its potential."

"Our analysts believe that the growth pattern does not mean that we are headed for a recession, but that it is not reaching its potential," the GE official said.

Jones said business had acquired a valuable ally in Secretary of the Treasury Michael Blumenthal "who has been very understanding of the problems of business."

"We were having difficulty getting directly to the President," said Jones. "That is why we were pleased when he recently invited a group of business leaders to the White House."

"We're hopeful that we'll be able to increase the dialogue with the President, but meanwhile we're pleased that Secretary Blumenthal has taken on the job of representing us," Jones said.

Jones said the President's decision not to go ahead with the B-1 bomber would have little immediate effect on employment at the company's Evendale plant near here.

The plant was to supply the F101 engines for the plane.

"When you look into the 1980s, however, we had fond hopes that the B-1 would make significant contributions to earnings and employment levels," Jones said.

"We're not writing off the F101 at this stage. It's too early to say if there are other applications for the engine."

Among other topics discussed by the GE executive was the concern about foreign imports, particularly in steel.

"The steel industry has been the whipping boy for Washington for a long time," Jones said.

The GE President said steel companies have been "encouraged to seek labor peace" by offering much higher salaries than other industries.

Jones also announced that effective Nov. 1 the company will increase the pension payments of all former employees who retired before that date. Also eligible for the increase are former employees who left the company prior to retirement, but who had vested rights to a pension and did retire before Nov. 1.

Telephonitis

May Be Crime

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "Telephonitis," that late-night, red-eyed affliction, could eventually be a crime as well as a malady in Ohio if it involved more than one offensive call to the same person.

Rep. Edward J. Hughes, D-59 Mentor, introduced legislation Wednesday at a "skeleton" House session to strengthen existing law, barring "repeated" offensive calls.

Hughes would ban "more than one call" to the same person, if made between midnight and 7 a.m. "unless the recipient of the call consents to the call after answering it."

Current prohibitions on "offensive, coarse" language would be spelled out by the bill to cover profanity, references to sexual activity, threats of bodily harm or harsh personal epithets. The section would apply to calls made over the one-call limit.

Violations would be punishable by up to six months in prison and a $1,000 fine.

A second bill, offered by Rep. James S. Zehner, D-63 Yellow Springs, would permit visitors to bring dogs and cats to state parks, subject to regulations set down by the division of parks and recreation.

Increased Computer

Use Studied For ADC

CLEVELAND (AP) — Increased use of computers is being examined by the Ohio auditor to make Aid to Dependent Children payments less susceptible to theft and fraud.

Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson said Wednesday a six-month test was under way which will have the payments waiting for 2,000 Cuyahoga County recipients at branches of the Cleveland Trust Co.

Sylvania City School May Close Early

SYLVANIA, Ohio (AP) — Sylvania City School District in Lucas County has been added to the state auditor's list of districts in danger of having to close early for Christmas due to lack of funds.

Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson's report filed Wednesday with the state superintendent of public instruction said the northwest Ohio district faced a deficit of $469,986 unless it closes 12 days early, on Dec. 8.

Even if the schools do close early, the 7,868-pupil district would incur another $12,000 debt to maintain the schools, plus more than $200,000 for unemployment compensation for teachers and staff.

Voters in the district turned down a levy proposal in November 1976 and again last March. The levy defeated in March is on the Nov. 8 general election ballot.

Ferguson has determined that 29 Ohio districts will finish the year with cash deficits. Most of them have been authorized to close early rather than operate in debt against state statutes.

In 1870, the first railroad train crossed the American continent.

Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth Sign.

FOR FRIDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Stress quality rather than quantity in your efforts. Get TODAY'S matters out of the way before seeking further. You are adept at squeezing out the best in a project - important now.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): A relatively easy day - once you get the gist of trends and go ahead at a steady pace. Personal relationships highly congenial.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): An excellent day for making new contacts, putting unique ideas into action. Influences also favorable for romance and travel.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Don't listen to what others say when you have reason to believe that the source is questionable. Stress your good judgment and objectivity.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): In both job and financial matters, use only time-tested procedures. Don't attempt anything risky now. And DON'T try for the unreasonable.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Don't mix pleasure with business and don't try to force issues. For the present, it will be better to let things take their course.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): You have instinctive know-how in many areas, but may tend to get off the track now, go off unwisely on tangents. Be alert - and avoid.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Brace yourself for some opposition. Prepared, you can cope with it more easily, even outwit it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Financial matters now have an element of risk, so make your moves slowly and deliberately. Personal relationships, however, promise to be exceptionally congenial.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): You may have to revise some views, revamp a pre-planned program if you are to attain the goals you desire. But do this efficiently and good results are certain.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Watch and wait before you engage in new undertakings, but do not hesitate where real advantages are obvious. A somewhat mild day, but tricky in spots.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Personal relations accentuated now. In fact, a comparatively new acquaintance could be responsible for a complete - and better - change in your outlook.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a highly active mind which is always teeming with progressive ideas - AND practical concepts for carrying them out. Stability and security are your first concerns and you will work tirelessly to attain the goals you set for yourself. You have a tremendous sense of responsibility and both family members and business associates know that you will never let them down. Here, however, you may sometimes find impositions placed upon you. Be alert! Fields in which you could especially succeed: business, statesmanship, medicine, the law. Birthdate of: Capt. James Cook, Eng. explorer.

Accurate Addition

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ever since man learned to count by using his fingers and toes, he has been seeking better and faster ways to add and subtract. Early devices include the abacus, counting rods and later the slide rule.

The first simple adding machine using geared wheels was devised in 1642, but it was 245 years later that Dorr Eugene Felt, of Chicago, Ill., invented an adding machine that was "absolutely accurate all the time." The patent for his first key-driven machine, which developed into the comptometer, was issued on Oct. 11, 1887, according to Intellectual Property Owners, a non-profit organization dedicated to the preservation of the U.S. patent system.

Felt entered into partnership with Robert Tarrant shortly afterward and for the next 15 years theirs was the only multiple key-driven calculator on the market, says IPO.

Westfall Seeks 3-Mill Levy

In the last few weeks much has been said and printed about schools closing in Ohio because of lack of operating funds. This is understandable because of the many mandates by the state and the ever rising costs of materials and supplies used by the schools.

The state legislature has not come forward to bail out school districts facing a shortage of funds. Instead, several legislators are now saying that more effort must be made by local boards of education to meet the needs of the district by way of cutbacks or voting additional millage.

Westfall has faced this shortage of operating funds over the last few

Cold Front Brings Rains To Southeastern States

By The Associated Press

A cold front that brought drenching rains to the Southeast in the first half of the week began moving out to sea today, promising clearing skies and milder temperatures.

Some rain continued in the mid-Atlantic states and there were a few showers and thundershowers over the western Carolinas.

Meanwhile, Texans continued to bask in Indian summer as temperatures were expected to climb into the 80s for the second straight day, with the possibility of some more 90-degree readings. Temperatures stayed in the 70s much of Wednesday night, before dipping into the 50s.

Elsewhere, cloudy skies extended over much of the Appalachians and Ohio Valley northeastward into southern New England. Dense fog formed over large parts of Indiana and Michigan.

Outside of the Southeast and mid-Atlantic, precipitation was limited to a few showers in northern Washington and Oregon and some isolated thundershowers in northern California.

Some cloudiness stretched from northern Minnesota into southeastern Montana and also over the southern parts of Texas and New Mexico. Most other areas of the nation had clear skies.

Cool air settled over the northern Rockies. In Montana temperatures dropped into the 20s compared with lows in the 30s and 40s Wednesday morning.

Mild temperatures for the season persist in most other areas.

Much of Kansas and Nebraska bathed in 80-degree weather Wednesday, while record highs for the date were set in parts of Colorado, Wyoming and Utah. Somewhat cooler temperatures were forecast for parts of the central Rockies and northern Plains today, but the south-central and southwestern states were expected to remain warm.

Temperatures around the nation at 3 a.m. EDT ranged from 79 at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., to 24 at Kalispell, Mont.

The national forecast called for rain or showers over portions of western Oregon and Washington state. Rain or showers also were predicted over southern Florida, from eastern North Carolina through eastern New York state into Maine and in parts of eastern upper Michigan and northern Ohio.

Temperatures were expected to be cool from the northern Pacific Coast to the northern Plains. Warm weather

Castro Says U.S. Is 'A Danger'

HAVANA (AP) — Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro says the United States remains a "potential danger" to Cuba and is still trying to foment rebellion in his country.

In brief remarks, he told a Massachusetts trade delegation Wednesday that problems between the two countries persist. But he added that President Carter's policies make the United States appear less threatening.

Castro said the United States is encouraging terrorism aimed at Cuba by exiles. He said the U.S. government is aware of activities against Cuba conducted by CIA-trained terrorists.

He also called the U.S. Navy base at Guantanamo Bay "an instrument of humiliation" and said the United States should leave foreign bases it occupies against the will of the people.

Castro said he planned to release no more U.S. political prisoners from Cuban jails, but added that lifting the U.S. economic embargo against Cuba "would facilitate further releases."

But Castro said he doesn't expect relations to improve dramatically overnight.

"After 17 years of confrontation and bad relations," said Castro, "the situation cannot be changed in a few months."

"The U.S. government needs time. I believe there are various problems the U.S. administration faces, such as the treaty with Panama. Time is not important because we have totally consolidated ourselves."

He said he doesn't consider the United States a potential threat "as long as President Carter's policy is maintained."

"But the United States," he added, "is a powerful country. It has adopted different policies at different times. It is potentially a danger," Castro added.

years. Savings have been made in every way possible during this time. Further cutbacks will only harm the basic educational program. To comply with the state standards and mandates along with the rising inflationary costs the board has no other direction to turn except to seek additional operating millage this November.

The three mills being asked for will provide a balance "keep even" budget. This additional millage will give the school district approximately $156,000 more per year for operating expenses. The budget for 1978 shows a deficit of $102,763, this is without additional personnel for mandated programs, without funds for major repairs, without replacement of equipment, and keeping with minimum salary schedules. Existing laws prevent school districts in Ohio to end a calendar year with a deficit.

The question concerning funds for building of the Vocational Agriculture shop has been asked several times. The money for this project was derived through sales of board owned property and from Federal funds through the Economic Development Administration. These funds can not be diverted to the general fund for operating expenses or purposes.

The present operating millage is 18.3 mills which is the lowest in the county and surrounding districts. The last operating levy approved by voters in Westfall was for 4.0 mills in May of 1970. Since that time the costs have increased over $300 per pupil per year.

A delay in passing the operating levy this time will only cost the district more later in the way of catch-up and other related expenses. The problem will still be present.

"A little democratic subsociety."

That is how a judge recently described the owners of units in a condominium. He pointed out that just as in the larger community, they give up some of their freedom in exchange for the advantages of group living.

How much freedom do they lose? Generally speaking, the board of directors has the power to make "house rules." Within reason, these rules are enforceable by law, even though individual owners may not like them. For example:

The board of one condominium voted to exclude all liquor from the clubhouse. One of the owners objected in court, arguing that liquor had not been causing any problems.

But the court upheld the board's action. Pointing out that restrictions on drinking are widespread, the court said:

"There is nothing unusual about a group of people electing to prohibit (liquor) in commonly owned areas."

In another case the by-laws authorized the directors to make improvements up to the amount of $5,000. Over the protests of several owners, the board decided to spend $500 for a new basketball court.

Again, a court found this within the scope of the board's discretion, ordering all the owners to pay their share.

Still, there are limits. In another condominium the board, worried about noise, decreed that there should be no play of music after eight p.m. — including weekends.

But a court said this was going too far. Noting that such a rule could apply even to radio and television, the court said this was just too much interference in the private lives of the owners.

Some noise, added the court, is "one of the penalties of modern civilization."

Westfall Seeks 3-Mill Levy

In the last few weeks much has been said and printed about schools closing in Ohio because of lack of operating funds. This is understandable because of the many mandates by the state and the ever rising costs of materials and supplies used by the schools.

The state legislature has not come forward to bail out school districts facing a shortage of funds. Instead, several legislators are now saying that more effort must be made by local boards of education to meet the needs of the district by way of cutbacks or voting additional millage.

Westfall has faced this shortage of operating funds over the last few years. Savings have been made in every way possible during this time. Further cutbacks will only harm the basic educational program. To comply with the state standards and mandates along with the rising inflationary costs the board has no other direction to turn except to seek additional operating millage this November.

The three mills being asked for will provide a balance "keep even" budget. This additional millage will give the school district approximately $156,000 more per year for operating expenses. The budget for 1978 shows a deficit of $102,763, this is without additional personnel for mandated programs, without funds for major repairs, without replacement of equipment, and keeping with minimum salary schedules. Existing laws prevent school districts in Ohio to end a calendar year with a deficit.

The question concerning funds for building of the Vocational Agriculture shop has been asked several times. The money for this project was derived through sales of board owned property and from Federal funds through the Economic Development Administration. These funds can not be diverted to the general fund for operating expenses or purposes.

The present operating millage is 18.3 mills which is the lowest in the county and surrounding districts. The last operating levy approved by voters in Westfall was for 4.0 mills in May of 1970. Since that time the costs have increased over $300 per pupil per year.

A delay in passing the operating levy this time will only cost the district more later in the way of catch-up and other related expenses. The problem will still be present.

Cold Front Brings Rains To Southeastern States

By The Associated Press
A cold front that brought drenching rains to the Southeast in the first half of the week began moving out to sea today, promising clearing skies and milder temperatures.

Some rain continued in the mid-Atlantic states and there were a few showers and thundershowers over the western Carolinas.

Meanwhile, Texans continued to bask in Indian summer as temperatures were expected to climb into the 80s for the second straight day, with the possibility of some more 90-degree readings. Temperatures stayed in the 70s much of Wednesday night, before dipping into the 50s.

Elsewhere, cloudy skies extended over much of the Appalachians and Ohio Valley northeastward into southern New England. Dense fog formed over large parts of Indiana and Michigan.

Outside of the Southeast and mid-Atlantic, precipitation was limited to a few showers in northern Washington and Oregon and some isolated thundershowers in northern California.

Some cloudiness stretched from northern Minnesota into southeastern Montana and also over the southern parts of Texas and New Mexico. Most other areas of the nation had clear skies.

Cool air settled over the northern Rockies. In Montana temperatures dropped into the 20s compared with lows in the 30s and 40s Wednesday morning.

Mild temperatures for the season persist in most other areas.

Much of Kansas and Nebraska bathed in 80-degree weather Wednesday, while record highs for the date were set in parts of Colorado, Wyoming and Utah. Somewhat cooler temperatures were forecast for parts of the central Rockies and northern Plains today, but the south-central and southwestern states were expected to remain warm.

Temperatures around the nation at 3 a.m. EDT ranged from 79 at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., to 24 at Kalispell, Mont.

The national forecast called for rain or showers over portions of western Oregon and Washington state. Rain or showers also were predicted over southern Florida, from eastern North Carolina through eastern New York state into Maine and in parts of eastern upper Michigan and northern Ohio.

Temperatures were expected to be cool from the northern Pacific Coast to the northern Plains. Warm weather

Castro Says U.S. Is 'A Danger'

HAVANA (AP) — Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro says the United States remains a "potential danger" to Cuba and is still trying to foment rebellion in his country.

In brief remarks, he told a Massachusetts trade delegation Wednesday that problems between the two countries persist. But he added that President Carter's policies make the United States appear less threatening.

Castro said the United States is encouraging terrorism aimed at Cuba by exiles. He said the U.S. government is aware of activities against Cuba conducted by CIA-trained terrorists.

He also called the U.S. Navy base at Guantanamo Bay "an instrument of humiliation" and said the United States should leave foreign bases it occupies against the will of the people.

Castro said he planned to release no more U.S. political prisoners from Cuban jails, but added that lifting the U.S. economic embargo against Cuba "would facilitate further releases."

But Castro said he doesn't expect relations to improve dramatically overnight.

"After 17 years of confrontation and bad relations," said Castro, "the situation cannot be changed in a few months."

"The U.S. government needs time. I believe there are various problems the U.S. administration faces, such as the treaty with Panama. Time is not important because we have totally consolidated ourselves."

He said he doesn't consider the United States a potential threat "as long as President Carter's policy is maintained."

"But the United States," he added, "is a powerful country. It has adopted different policies at different times. It is potentially a danger," Castro added.

covered the central, south-central and southwestern region. Mild conditions prevailed elsewhere.

County Board Of Health Meets In Marathon Session

The Pickaway County Board of Health discussed the building freeze in the Village of Williamsport with village officials Tuesday in a meeting lasting nearly three hours.

The officials said it would probably be a year after a bid was approved before the sewage system could be put into operation. Bids are to be opened Nov. 9.

The discussion centered on what the village council and county board of health could do to enforce the denial of variances to residents of the village.

Hugh Barnhill said the Ohio Revised Code provides penalties for violations. Compounding the problem, though, is the fact that the village of Williamsport has no zoning regulations and the village public utilities board installed water lines into homes installed in the village after the freeze.

The problem has arisen with mobile homes and modular homes that can go up in one to three days time.

No construction of houses has taken place in Williamsport however, since the freeze began.

The board then heard from Paul Cox and his attorney. Cox owns the triangle of land bound by Route 22 West, Mill Road and Canal Road.

A cease and desist order was given to Paul Cox to improve or put in a new sewage system for the trailer park and restaurant. The reason was due to sewage and standing water on his parking lot, Barnhill said.

According to Barnhill the parking lot covers a sewage system consisting of a septic tank and leaching wells. The low area takes drainage off of Cox's restaurant and the adjacent mobile home park and the roads. Barnhill said the system was built years ago and that the area has grown but that the sewage capacity has remained the same.

Cox said he felt that the sewage system was adequate, particularly now that he has installed 16 tons of gravel to help remedy the problem during the summer.

There is still standing water which Cox and his attorney said is due to the storm sewer. "The storm sewer has got to be repaired," the attorney said.

Despite repeated requests for action from County Engineer Henry McCrady's office there has been no response, Cox said.

Barnhill said the only complaint received after the gravel was installed was received by the county prosecutor.

Barnhill said, "I think the storm sewer needs to be cleaned out."

The board is going to request a meeting with the county engineer to discuss the problem. The board feels that if this sewer is repaired it will help relieve the problem with the sewage system. Presently surface water runs off and floods the sewage system.

Barnhill suggested to Cox that he get at least two parties to make application for federal funds to obtain an extension of a sewage line from the sewage treatment plant to the triangle. The city must accept the waste if the parties extend an approved line to the trunk line.

The Board will call the county prosecutor to seek a 30-day continuance on the hearing set for November 8 concerning Cox's Restaurant.

Wanda Kitchen, read a letter from another visitor, Lawrence Hayes of Ashville who is seeking a sewage permit for a lot he owns. Hayes wishes to construct a house on the lot.

Kitchen also read a letter from Don Archer describing the land, soil characteristics and suitability for construction and sewage disposal.

The soil, a Brookston silty clay, is bad for housing and sewage systems according to Archer. There is no ditch or line to a ditch at the location near Air Base Road and Circleville-Lockbourne Road.

Hugh Barnhill will investigate the feasibility of additional systems and report his findings to the board at the meeting.

The board gave approval to issuing a permit to a Ringgold resident subject to written permission from the Walnut township trustees.

In other action the board:

- Approved the purchase of a physician's desk reference book and a communicable diseases control book and decided to provide information on scabies and lice - how to get rid of it, how to keep it out of the home.
- Voted to accept a bid for a car from Yates Motor Car Co. with the stipulation that it not have air conditioning.

Wanda Kitchen reported that $100 was received from an anonymous donor. She said the health department has decided to take water samples to the labs because less cost and fewer unsatisfactory results are being obtained than when they were sent through the parcel service.

Hugh Barnhill reported that new food service licenses will not have to be renewed each year. Once a license is issued it will be posted until revoked, lost or possibly with change of ownership under the new legislation. The legislation has been passed but has not gone into effect.

About 30 food inspections were completed. Orders with time limits were issued to these operations.

Fifteen home sewage permits were issued in October.

Nurses Stephanie Denman and Shirley Keib reported that sixteen hospital referrals were received and visits made. B12 injections were made at 28 home visits.

Four persons picked up medication for rheumatic fever.

Two immunization clinics were held this month with 62 patients attending. Forty DPT, two DT, 38 polio and 20 combined measles shots were given.

Nurses gave 25 DPT shots, 21 polio shots and nine combined measles shots at the well child clinic.

Two prenatal clinics were held.

Members attending the meeting were Charles McCray, Dr. Paul Fenstermaker, Bonnie Hildenbrand, Franklin Strous, Richard Christensen, Dr. Frank Moore, health commissioner; Wanda Kitchen, office supervisor; Lorene Miller, chief registrar; Stephanie Denman and Shirley Keib, nurses; Williamsport Mayor Paul Long, Cox, his attorney and Hayes, council members, John Reynolds and Bob Metzger.

Berger Board Meets Wednesday Evening

The Berger Hospital Board of Governors met in regular session Wednesday evening in the Guild room of the hospital.

The first item of business on the agenda was the reading and approval of the minutes of the Board of Governors and Board of Commissioners meetings of Sept. 28.

The next part of the agenda dealt with financial concerns of the Board. Board members expressed concern with the situation regarding accounts receivable at the hospital. While noting that this was the only piece of the financial picture that wasn't good, Administrator Charles Rideout admitted that the hospital was having problems collecting money from bills. New procedures in billing in the business office have been implemented and the Board discussed what impact the new data processing system will have on the accounts receivable situation. Any effects of the new system might not be felt for several months. Rideout stated that the administration will start determining when a patient enters the hospital, how that patient's bill can be collected, whether by welfare, a third party payer, or some other means.

In other financial matters, the Board moved to pay an architect's bill on the design of the new bed section of the hospital. They also discussed a possible rate increase. Rideout noted that it has been two full years since the hospital rates have been increased.

Rideout informed the Board that construction was to start last week on the new section, but that it will probably start this week. The Board agreed to hold a groundbreaking ceremony on November 10 at 2 p.m.

Rideout informed the Board that the Joint Commission of Accreditation for Hospitals survey held at Berger Hospital October 11 went well for the most part. "The problem areas were ones that we expected," stated Rideout. "Things such as non-conformity in the building were expected. We can only expect a year's accreditation at a time until we get into the new building," he said.

Rideout in turn commended the medical staff of Berger Hospital for their outstanding work and cooperation displayed in the past two years.

I.D. patches and badges are in and will soon be passed out to the staff in the next few weeks.

The Board discussed entering into a working agreement with the Circleville Emergency Medical Services, whereby members of the CEMT will be permitted to observe physicians administering to patients only while the members of the CEMT are on duty. The agreement will be in effect for only two months, and at the end of that time it would be decided whether to continue the working agreement or modify it in some way.

Under the agreement, according to Rideout, any physician not desiring EMT members to observe his work with patients could so indicate his wish to hospital authorities and that wish would be honored. A patient not wishing to be observed by the CEMT could so indicate by signing a card on his admission to the hospital.

The Board also discussed the purchase of Christmas gifts for hospital employees this year. A booklet will be available for employees to pick a gift from. They will send in an order form, and the gift will be mailed to them. The Board agreed that with the large number of gifts to be purchased, this would undoubtedly be the most efficient convenient way for both the Board and the employees concerned.

The Board noted that because of the Thanksgiving holiday next month, the Board meeting was set for the fifth Wednesday in November. Also, December 2 will be the date for the hospital party at the American Legion Post on Route 23 South.

With the agenda completed, the meeting was adjourned at 8:55 p.m.

Present at the meeting were Charles Rose, Howard Koch, Russell Palm, Charles Rideout, Ann Dresbach, Dr. F. W. Anderson, Dr. Carlos Alvarez, Harry Clifton, Henry Schroeder, and Dr. Charles Hedges.

The J.C.A.H. also suggested new ways of minutes of meetings within the hospital and also new methods of auditing books to give a clearer financial picture of services rendered by the hospital. The organization also praised the hospital's relationship with the community and the local news

Police Investigate Burglaries

Vicki Spencer, 19, Chillicothe, told Ptl. Michael Eberhard that she parked her car by the railroad tracks on South Washington Street Tuesday.

Sometime during the night someone cut all four of her tires, broke the wing glass on the driver's side and entered the vehicle. The culprit took two brown leather purses including one belonging to Miss Spencer.

Nellie Esposito, 475 Half Ave. told Ptl. Eberhard that during Tuesday evening someone entered her residence and took an orange 24-inch boy's 10-speed bicycle with orange tape on the handlebars. Also taken was a minibike but the minibike was found later in the alley.

Value of the bicycle is $100.

Reggie Kladcliff, 81 Stihl Ave., advised police that he went into an apartment on Gale Court Wednesday evening.

When he returned to his car shortly before 10 p.m. he found that the CB radio had been removed from the dashboard of his vehicle. The wire was cut and the radio was unscrewed from the mount. Value of the radio is $179.

Joe Ogan reported a breaking and entering and theft at Scioto Haulers, 901 Clinton St. which occurred sometime Tuesday or Wednesday. Investigation showed that entry was gained through a window on the north side of the building by pushing an air conditioner out the window. The two offices were ransacked. A blue Second National Bank bag with bills and miscellaneous change was taken.

Rosemary Good, 363 Walnut St., said that sometime about Oct. 16 someone removed four hubcaps from her 1977 Camaro.

An employee of Nate's Disco, 126 W. Main St. told police that an identified man came to the bar and asked for a beer. The employee advised the man that he had had too much to drink and would not serve him.

The man became upset and broke three or four beer glasses that were on the bar. He then went to the back of the bar where he tore some ceiling tile and ceiling railing. The man then left out the back door.

Ptl. Barton said the man alleged to have broken the glasses was Ronald Hamilton, 33, Logan Elm Village. Barton found the man on West Main Street and arrested him for intoxication.

County Board Of Health Meets In Marathon Session

The Pickaway County Board of Health discussed the building freeze in the Village of Williamsport with village officials Tuesday in a meeting lasting nearly three hours.

The officials said it would probably be a year after a bid was approved before the sewage system could be put into operation. Bids are to be opened Nov. 9.

The discussion centered on what the village council and county board of health could do to enforce the denial of variances to residents of the village.

Hugh Barnhill said the Ohio Revised Code provides penalties for violations. Compounding the problem, though, is the fact that the village of Williamsport has no zoning regulations and the village public utilities board installed water lines into homes installed in the village after the freeze.

The problem has arisen with mobile homes and modular homes that can go up in one to three days time.

No construction of houses has taken place in Williamsport however, since the freeze began.

The board then heard from Paul Cox and his attorney. Cox owns the triangle of land bound by Route 22 West, Mill Road and Canal Road.

A cease and desist order was given to Paul Cox to improve or put in a new sewage system for the trailer park and restaurant. The reason was due to sewage and standing water on his parking lot, Barnhill said.

According to Barnhill the parking lot covers a sewage system consisting of a septic tank and leaching wells. The low area takes drainage off of Cox's restaurant and the adjacent mobile home park and the roads. Barnhill said the system was built years ago and that the area has grown but that the sewage capacity has remained the same.

Cox said he felt that the sewage system was adequate, particularly now that he has installed 16 tons of gravel to help remedy the problem during the summer.

There is still standing water which Cox and his attorney said is due to the storm sewer. "The storm sewer has got to be repaired," the attorney said.

Despite repeated requests for action from County Engineer Henry McCrady's office there has been no response, Cox said.

Barnhill said the only complaint received after the gravel was installed was received by the county prosecutor. Barnhill said, "I think the storm sewer needs to be cleaned out."

The board is going to request a meeting with the county engineer to discuss the problem. The board feels that if this sewer is repaired it will help relieve the problem with the sewage system. Presently surface water runs off and floods the sewage system.

Barnhill suggested to Cox that he get at least two parties to make application for federal funds to obtain an extension of a sewage line from the sewage treatment plant to the triangle. The city must accept the waste if the parties extend an approved line to the trunk line.

The Board will call the county prosecutor to seek a 30-day continuance on the hearing set for November 8 concerning Cox's Restaurant.

Wanda Kitchen, read a letter from another visitor, Lawrence Hayes of Ashville who is seeking a sewage permit for a lot he owns. Hayes wishes to construct a house on the lot.

Kitchen also read a letter from Don Archer describing the land, soil characteristics and suitability for construction and sewage disposal.

The soil, a Brookston silty clay, is bad for housing and sewage systems according to Archer. There is no ditch or line to a ditch at the location near Air Base Road and Circleville-Lockbourne Road.

Hugh Barnhill will investigate the feasibility of additional systems and report his findings to the board at the meeting.

The board gave approval to issuing a permit to a Ringgold resident subject to written permission from the Walnut township trustees.

In other action the board: — Approved the purchase of a physician's desk reference book and a communicable diseases control book and decided to provide information on scabies and lice — how to get rid of it, how to keep it out of the home.

— Voted to accept a bid for a car from Yates Motor Car Co. with the stipulation that it not have air conditioning.

Wanda Kitchen reported that $100 was received from an anonymous donor. She said the health department has decided to take water samples to the labs because less cost and fewer unsatisfactory results are being obtained than when they were sent through the parcel service.

Hugh Barnhill reported that new food service licenses will not have to be renewed each year. Once a license is issued it will be posted until revoked, lost or possibly with change of ownership under the new legislation. The legislation has been passed but has not gone into effect.

About 30 food inspections were completed. Orders with time limits were issued to these operations. Fifteen home sewage permits were issued in October.

Nurses Stephanie Denman and Shirley Keib reported that sixteen hospital referrals were received and visits made. B12 injections were made at 28 home visits.

Four persons picked up medication for rheumatic fever.

Two immunization clinics were held this month with 62 patients attending. Forty DPT, two DT, 38 polio and 20 combined measles shots were given.

Nurses gave 25 DPT shots, 21 polio shots and nine combined measles shots at the well child clinic.

Two prenatal clinics were held. Members attending the meeting were Charles McCray, Dr. Paul Fenstermaker, Bonnie Hildenbrand, Franklin Strous, Richard Christensen, Dr. Frank Moore, health commissioner; Wanda Kitchen, office supervisor; Lorene Miller, chief registrar; Stephanie Denman and Shirley Keib, nurses; Williamsport Mayor Paul Long, Cox, his attorney and Hayes, council members, John Reynolds and Bob Metzger.

Police Investigate Burglaries

Circleville City police investigated five cases of theft and one incident of criminal damaging during the past two days.

Vicki Spencer, 19, Chillicothe, told Ptl. Michael Eberhard that she parked her car by the railroad tracks on South Washington Street Tuesday.

Berger Board Meets Wednesday Evening

The Berger Hospital Board of Governors met in regular session Wednesday evening in the Guild room of the hospital.

The first item of business on the agenda was the reading and approval of the minutes of the Board of Governors and Board of Commissioners meetings of Sept. 28.

The next part of the agenda dealt with financial concerns of the Board. Board members expressed concern with the situation regarding accounts receivable at the hospital. While noting that this was the only piece of the financial picture that wasn't good, Administrator Charles Rideout admitted that the hospital was having problems collecting money from bills. New procedures in billing in the business office have been implemented and the Board discussed what impact the new data processing system will have on the accounts receivable situation. Any effects of the new system might not be felt for several months. Rideout stated that the administration will start determining when a patient enters the hospital, how that patient's bill can be collected, whether by welfare, a third party payer, or some other means.

In other financial matters, the Board moved to pay an architect's bill on the design of the new bed section of the hospital. They also discussed a possible rate increase. Rideout noted that it has been two full years since the hospital rates have been increased. Rideout informed the Board that construction was to start last week on the new section, but that it will probably start this week. The Board agreed to hold a groundbreaking ceremony on November 10 at 2 p.m.

Rideout informed the Board that the Joint Commission of Accreditation for Hospitals survey held at Berger Hospital October 11 went well for the most part. "The problem areas were ones that we expected," stated rideout. "Things such as non-conformity in the building were expected. We can only expect a year's accreditation at a time until we get into the new building," he said.

The J.C.A.H. also suggested new ways of minutes of meetings within the hospital and also new methods of auditing books to give a clearer financial picture of services rendered by the hospital. The organization also praised the hospital's relationship with the community and the local news
